IBOP Obtains 2 Tracts For New Quarters

Wheatley Discusses Plans In Open Letter To Dissenting Potter

The locations and costs of two tracts of ground suitable for a new headquarters building of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters were revealed by E. L. Wheatley, president, in an open letter to the trade in the Potters Herald, official union newspaper.

The details were given as Wheatley answered questions posed by a California potter in a circular letter regarding the proposed construction of a new union headquarters seven miles north of East Liverpool on Route 7.

In his reply to Roy C. Smith of San Luis Obispo, Calif., the international president said the union purchased a 10-acre tract on Route 7 last Oct. 22 for $17,387.55. The site has a 500-foot frontage on the highway and includes a 5-room semi-bungalow and a small lake.

A second tract of slightly more than 2 acres on St. Clair Ave. Ext. was purchased Jan. 20 for $6,969.42, Wheatley said. The site is a vacant lot about half a mile from the city limits in St. Clair Township, Wheatley said.

Either would be a "beautiful spot" for a new headquarters, Wheatley's letter said. Both were purchased through the J. G. Davies Real Estate Agency.

The details were given as Wheatley reviewed the actions of the 1958 convention recommending that the union's Executive Board investigate the possibility of locating parking space or building space in East Liverpool.

Wheatley wrote that he, Charles F. Jordan, secretary - treasurer, and Leonard Greco of Beaver

Boilermakers Local Ends Stratton Strike

The longest strike this year in the immediate Ohio Valley has been settled by Boilermakers Local 154, whose members are returning to work Tuesday at the Ohio Edison Co. plant at Stratton and at projects of 11 other contractors. The 750-member local struck 15 contractors June 1, settling with three firms last week.

The workers' return was announced by George Hoffmaster, business agent for Local 154 at Pittsburgh.

The Boilermaker Employees' Association and the union agreed to a 90-day cooling off period before resuming negotiations for a new local contract. Both sides agreed that there shall be no strikes or lockouts over any item of negotiations after contracts talks are resumed.

Hoffmaster said workers will be given a 15-cent hourly pay increase under the interim agreement. Wage scales were not disclosed. The Foster Wheeler Corp. of New York is the contractor on the power plant.

Winner of the beauty contest for girls 16 to 25 will be presented a gold watch. She will be crowned at a free dance in the evening from 8:30 to 11:30 in Beacom Memorial Gymnasium. Music will be furnished by Sam D'Angelo's band.

2 At Taverns Fined $150 In Sale To Youth

Two Chester tavern operators were fined a total of $150 and costs by Mayor Burton Ward Thursday night on charges of selling intoxicants to a minor youth.

Charges were filed by William Paolisso, Hancock County juvenile officer, against Mrs. Fannie Deerfield, proprietor of the Fannie's Tavern, 502 Carolina Ave., and J. W. Cornell, proprietor of the 500 Bar of 500 Carolina Ave.

Mrs. Deerfield was fined $100 and costs, and Cornell was fined $50 and costs. Mayor Ward explained Cornell had been in business only a month and the offense was his first, while Mrs. Deerfield had been cited on other occasions.

Mrs. Deerfield pleaded not guilty, and her attorney said an appeal will be filed with Hancock County Circuit Court. The mayor said the appeal bond will be $250 and may be posted Saturday.

Cornell pleaded guilty. Paolisso said the sales occurred Sunday night.

Members of Local Union 141. Special election Tues., Sept. 8th. Polls will be open from 12 to 5:30 p. m. By order of Pres.—Ad.

First Power Flight Of X15 Is Called Off

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An X15 rocket ship went aloft today for what had been scheduled as its first power flight, but technical difficulties canceled the attempt.

The pilot Scott Crossfield jettisoned his fuel about an hour after the 50-foot-long black dart took off fastened under the wing of a B52 bomber. The two planes then headed back to earth.

There was no immediate indication as to the trouble.

A leak in a hydrogen peroxide line last week forced postponement of a scheduled power flight at that time.

The X15 is designed eventually to blast a man to the edge of space and return him safely.

The tiny ship made the round trip attached to a bomber piloted by Crossfield's buddy, Air Force Capt. Charles Bock.

Nehru told Parliament the note arrived from Peiping Thursday.

Public Offices, Businesses To Take Holiday

Pickets Will 'Labor' Monday With Steel Industries On Strike

Public offices, business firms and "unstruck" industries of the Tri-State District will suspend operations for Labor Day, which comes nearly a week late this year. Several plants will start curtailing tonight to provide a long weekend for employees.

Ironically, some steelworkers will be "laboring" Monday—manning the picket lines at struck plants mainly in Midland. But the big mills and fabricating plants will remain silent in the strike now nearly two months old.

Despite a holiday closing Monday, East Liverpool stores will not be open next Wednesday afternoon. Although they generally operate until 5 p. m. on Wednesday of a holiday week, next week will be an exception.

The six area banks and savings and loan institutions all will observe the holiday.

The Potters Savings & Loan Association and the First Federal Savings & Loan Association both will remain open Wednesday afternoon. They normally close at noon.

The First National Bank, Potters Bank & Trust Co., the Perpetual Savings & Loan Association of Wellsville and the Hancock County Federal Savings & Loan Association of Chester all will observe regular hours for the remainder of the week.

City Halls will be closed in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Lisbon, Chester, Midland and New Cumberland, as will Courthouses in Lisbon, Beaver and New Cumberland.

Southwest District Court at Lisbon is closed today through Monday.

The Lisbon Courthouse will close at noon Saturday as usual and reopen Tuesday at 8 a. m. The weather is.

Northern Lights Give 'Dull' Midnight Show

If there isn't a crick in your neck from watching the Northern Lights Thursday night, then you should lower your gaze to the thermometer and verify how nice the weather is.

Today continued sunny and mild with a high of only 80 to 84 forecast, while tonight's low will be a comfortable — for sleeping — 56 to 60. Saturday will be sunny and warmer.

It will be a duplication of yesterday's weather, which had a high of 84 and a low of 61.

Old Mother Nature put on rather a dull show with her Aurora Borealis last night, lacking the multi-colored display usually associated with the phenomenon. The soft, pale glow appeared throughout the northern sky, reaching from the horizon to directly overhead at times. Occasionally, the luminous streamers appeared as huge panels bending up from the horizon.

The show began before midnight and lasted about three hours.

Eisenhower Taking Rest In Scotland

Ends Diplomatic Mission; To Return To U.S. Next Week

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived in Scotland today for a short vacation at a Highlands castle before returning to the United States from his nine-day diplomatic mission to Western Europe.

Eisenhower flew by jet directly from France, where he held two days of talks with President Charles de Gaulle rounding out a tour that took him to Bonn, London and Paris.

He plans to spend a sporting weekend at Culzean Castle. Several fine golf courses and hunting areas are nearby. Scotland gave him a 16-room apartment in the castle as a token of respect for his leadership as Allied commander in World War II.

He tackled the beautiful 6,600-yard Ailsa course, five miles from the castle, this afternoon. Playing with him were his son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and John Hay Whitney, the U.S. ambassador to Britain.

The President is returning to Washington after the Labor Day weekend here.

His beautiful third-floor apartment looks out over the broad sweep of the Firth of Clyde.

A cheering crowd of 500 Scots greeted the smiling President at Prestwick Airport. He showed none of the strain of his grueling schedule.

Eisenhower said farewell to De Gaulle at Rambouillet Chateau, Paris, where he spent the night. De Gaulle bade him a "bon voyage, Monsieur le President."

A helicopter flew Eisenhower from Rambouillet to Paris' Le Bourget airport, where he boarded the plane for Scotland.

"Goodbye, again au revoir," said Eisenhower in a brief airport speech during which he thanked the people of France and the French government for making his two-day stay "so pleasant and enjoyable."

"Finally, I want to say that the visit of Gen. de Gaulle and myself has been mutually profitable and in my opinion will mark another step in our cooperative effort to

Challenge Set Of City's Law On Junk Yard

The constitutionality of East Liverpool's new ordinance regulating junk yard operations will be tested next week in a case before Municipal Judge George L. Brokaw.

Atty. Ben H. Berman indicated he will question the validity of the ordinance in remarks to the court this morning when he appeared to represent his brother, Paul Berman, 65, of 321 W. 9th St., who was arrested yesterday afternoon for violation of the regulatory measure.

Atty. Berman entered a not guilty plea for his brother and told the court: "It is our belief that the ordinance is unconstitutional and discriminatory."

Judge Brokaw, acting at the request of Assistant Solicitor Richard J. Clark, set the hearing for next Thursday morning. The solicitor explained that Patrolman W. E. McDaniel, who made the arrest, was off duty today. Barry Berman, son of Paul Berman, appeared in court in place of his father.

Paul Berman is charged specifically with violation of Section 372. (Turn to JUNK YARD, Page 11)

Accuses Both Sides

Labor Chief Says Steel Strike Talks In Critical Stage

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell says negotiations in the 52-day-old steel strike have reached a critical stage, and he accuses both industry and union of being derelict in their responsibility.

Mitchell's new blast came about the time governors of eight of the states hardest hit by the strike appealed for a conference with President Eisenhower to discuss ways to end the walkout.

Mitchell, who is serving as Eisenhower's fact-finder in the strike, expressed his views in an interview at Cleveland, Ohio.

He said he believed the outcome of Thursday's negotiations and the developments at today's talks here "will produce either some movement or forward progress toward a settlement."

"I think the next few days will determine whether we will get a reasonable settlement or whether the strike will be further drawn out," he added.

Mitchell said both sides "could have applied themselves to bargaining more diligently than they have thus far."

A telegram to Eisenhower from the eight governors was made public by Pennsylvania Gov. David L. Lawrence at Harrisburg.

The governors—all Democrats—included Edmund Brown of California, Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Foster Furcolo of Massachusetts, Orville L. Freeman of Wisconsin and J. Millard Tawes of Maryland.

They did not say what action by the President would be sought.

DiSalle May Join

Governors In Move

CLEVELAND (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has indicated he will join the governors of several other states hard hit by the steel strike in a plan to familiarize President Eisenhower with the impact the strike has had on the states.

Walkout Hits Two Giants Of Meat Industry

34 Of Swift Plants Struck; Strike Off At Wilson For Talks

CHICAGO (AP)—Union meat-packing house workers struck Swift and Co. and Wilson and Co., two giants of the meat industry, early today.

Then the unions quietly called off the Wilson strike with a joint agreement to continue wage-hour talks for 24 hours.

The United Packinghouse Workers of America and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen called the strikes at Swift's plants in 34 cities and at Wilson's plants in seven cities, to enforce demands — rebuffed by both companies — for higher wages and other benefits in a new contract replacing one which expired Aug. 31.

The contract talks have been under way since early July. Two days ago, Armour and Co., another of the Big Four of the meat-packing industry, signed a contract granting wage boosts and some of the other union requests. The other industry leaders were expected to follow.

Monaca And Rochester Span To Open Oct. 23

The Beaver County Municipal Authority has approved Friday, Oct. 23, as a tentative date for the official opening of the new toll bridge between Monaca and East Rochester.

It was originally scheduled for the spring of 1960.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony is planned with Gov. David L. Lawrence and Secretary of Highways Park Martin invited to participate.

Following the opening, officials and guests will be entertained at a luncheon by the American Bridge Co. and Dravo Corp., officials—the two main contractors of the span.

The authority also agreed to officially name it the "Monaca-East Rochester Bridge."

The name first selected for the municipal bridge did not meet state approval.

Senate OK's Legislation By 95-To-2

Has Unprecedented Controls On Internal Affairs Of Unions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The labor regulation bill, a legislative landmark of the 1959 session, is expected to be passed by the House and sent to President Eisenhower today.

The compromise measure passed the Senate 95-2 Thursday night after more than eight hours of debate.

The bill, containing unprecedented controls over the internal affairs of unions, is by far the most substantial rewriting of the nation's labor laws since the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act.

Its first six titles, aimed at racketeering and other abuses in some unions, provide detailed regulation of union finances, elections trusteeships and conduct of officers and employees.

The seventh and final title, which aroused the most controversy, amends the Taft-Hartley law to put new restrictions on such union weapons as boycotts and organizational picketing. It also contains a few amendments long sought by the unions.

Only Senators Wayne Morse (D-Ore) and William Langer (R-ND) voted against the bill in the Senate.

Morse used more than four hours of the debate time detailing his charge that the measure liquidated "some of the hard-earned legitimate rights of American free labor."

All other speeches praised the bill, but in general the enthusiasm was greater among senators most critical of unions.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) chairman of the Senate House conference and sponsor of the original Senate version, said the final product went farther than he would have liked.

But he said he made no apologies for it—"I will say frankly it is the only bill it is possible to obtain in all the circumstances."

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate Rackets Committee, said the compromise bill was better than either of the earlier versions and "a fine reward" for three years of work by his group. Much of the steam behind the bill was generated by the committee's disclosures of union abuses.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) said the bill would "strike at the heart of the racketeering, hoodlumism and gangsterism in the labor movement."

Bill Restores Funds For 2 District Dams

A revised public works appropriations bill was approved Thursday by a House Appropriations Subcommittee at Washington.

The bill deleted 67 projects which the President opposed last week in his veto.

Wednesday, the House failed to override the veto by one vote. The bill now goes to the full committee and then to the House, either of which may alter the measure.

Projects in the bill, together with amounts include:

Ohio: Construction — Cleveland Harbor, $400,000; Dillon Reservoir, $5,160,000; Stratton locks and dam, $6,800,000; Pike Island locks and dam at Yorkville, $3,500,000; Roseville, $284,000; planning — West Branch Mahoning River Reservoir, $229,000; Belleville locks and dam, Ohio and West Virginia, $125,000.

his statewide tour to explain the reasoning behind the tax increase he recommended to the Legislature, confirmed that he had had discussions with Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, originator of the plan.

DiSalle already has made public mention of the fact that relief loads have become extra heavy in several Ohio counties as a result of the walkout which started July 15.

He addressed a joint luncheon of the Kiwanis Club of Cleveland and the Junior Chamber of Commerce and toured the Greater Cleveland College Information Fair during his visit here—his first since his election last November.

Pointing to the need for more state revenue, DiSalle said that Ohio's contribution to public schools rose from 74 million dollars in 1947 to 217 million in 1959; that in 1959-60 the state would contribute 18 million dollars more to higher education than it did in the previous biennium and that a cash balance of 213 million dollars in 1947 had sunk to an overcommitment of 13 million by last June 30.

He said that Ohio had been living beyond its income, through depletion of its surplus and through borrowing, for many years, but the state is now sound financially.

Some 300 industries have located or expanded in Ohio since last February, the governor said.

"We will continue to expand," he added. "Industries want to locate in a state they know is paying its way."

Negley Woman Hurt When Car Leaves Road

Ruth Hughes, 27, of Negley is in "fair" condition today at Salem City Hospital with an ankle injury suffered when her car veered off the roadway at Unity about 2 a.m.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the woman was on Route 14, and made a turn onto Route 170, but her car went off the roadway. She suffered a possible fracture of the ankle, and her 1950 coach had to be towed away, officers said. She was cited for reckless operation.

Clue Proves Fruitless In Beating Inquiry

"The best lead so far" turned out to be a "complete blank" Thursday in an investigation of a Pittsburgh suspect in connection with an attack on a Chester woman, Hancock County sheriff's deputies said today.

Deputies went to Pittsburgh with hopes of arresting a suspect in the pistol whipping of Miss Peggy Stoltz, 21, of 500 Louisiana Ave., a week ago.

However, the lead turned out to be a blank and the investigation continues in attempts to identify the girl's assailant, deputies said. Miss Stoltz was hospitalized for some six days with face and head cuts received when the masked prowler surprised her in her apartment, she told deputies.

Ike

ward peace with justice," Eisenhower said.

He stood bareheaded beneath gray skies as the band played the Star Spangled Banner and the Marseillaise. Then he walked across damp tarmac to his plane.

At Le Bourget Airport to see Eisenhower off were all top members of the French Cabinet: U. S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander; French Premier Michel Debre; and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

Premier Debre, in replying to Eisenhower's farewell speech, said his trip—the first state visit by an American president since Woodrow Wilson after World War I—"demonstrated the certainty of cooperation between France and the United States" which is necessary for the preservation of the Atlantic Alliance and the battle for world peace.

Rain fell during the night but stopped by the time the President boarded a helicopter for the flight to Paris from Rambouillet.

The President wound up his last and perhaps most crucial discussions with De Gaulle Thursday night on a note of general agreement.

After two days of talks, the two leaders issued a communique saying they agreed on most of the questions discussed.

Whether or not there was agreement on the most delicate question of all—the rebellion in Algeria—was not readily apparent. The communique touched on the subject in vague language, saying only that "African problems in general and those which relate to North Africa in particular were discussed at some length."

There was speculation the French leader told Eisenhower of his new plans for ending the nearly five-year-old revolt in Algeria.

Diplomatic sources, however, were convinced De Gaulle outlined his plans and sought United States support.

Informed sources said the French President would make a statement before the United Nations General Assembly opens in New York Sept. 15. The Algerian issue is slated to come up in the U.N.

The New York Times said in a dispatch from Washington that De Gaulle's plan for Algeria calls for creation of an Algerian-elected assembly and an Algerian executive.

According to the report, De Gaulle would be willing to negotiate the future of Algeria with an executive drawn from the elected legislature.

The newspaper said the relationship of the Algerian assembly and executive to institutions in France was not fully worked out in the report of the De Gaulle plan.

"But it implied that the Algerian people were entitled to self-determination and that ultimately this could go as far as independence," the Times said.

On the question of summit talks, Eisenhower and De Gaulle agreed a conference should be held only when there is some possibility of definite accomplishment and that such a meeting would be useful in principle.

Eisenhower and De Gaulle reached complete agreement on the Berlin question, the communique said.

2 Make Application In Midland Police Test

Two applications have been received so far to take examinations Thursday for a Midland police eligibility list for patrolmen. Mrs. Malena Westlake, borough secretary, said.

Deadline for applications will be Thursday at 4 p. m. at her office. Examinations will be conducted the same day at 7 p. m. in Council Chambers by Benny Pultanovich, Civil Service officer.

The new list is being drawn up to replace the old list which expired in August. Though there are no openings now, the list is made up to fill any vacancies which might occur.

City Hall Clocks Switch To 'Unorthodox' Time

Anyone who sets his watch by the dozen or so clocks in City Hall will be a little slower than Daylight Saving Time and a little ahead of Eastern Standard Time.

All the electric clocks are regulated automatically by a master unit in the office of Mayor Fred P. Lawrence. The "master" still is maintaining correct time, but the others—on all four floors of the building—are running about an hour behind.

The unorthodox time apparently is a result of a malfunction of the mechanism that ordinarily keeps all the clocks co-ordinated.

To Guard Highways

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's 27 traffic deaths over the 78-hour Labor Day weekend last year will be duplicated in the upcoming holiday weekend, the Department of Highway Safety predicts. To try to help trim the accident toll, the Highway Patrol will be out in greater numbers than at any time this summer, Patrol Supt. S. B. Radcliffe said Thursday.

Alphonse Taft, the father of William Howard Taft, was U. S. minister to Austria and to Russia.

No Compromise On Principle

When Sen. Goldwater and Sen. Kennedy both can underwrite the conference-compromised labor reform bill, the public can be confident there was no compromise of principle, only of procedure.

The point is vital. Labor reform had not been scheduled for this session of Congress. The issue was to have been glossed over by another political fudge job, like last year's unspoken agreement between employers and union leaders to forget the whole thing.

Something happened. It happened in the minds of representatives and senators like Goldwater, the Arizona Republican whose victory last November against determined AFL-CIO opposition was the exception which proved the rule that the unions were calling the turn in politics. They were determined to crack down on the abuses of unionism.

It happened in the minds of Democrats like Kennedy, a front-runner in the warmup race for the Democratic presidential nomination next year. Kennedy, who has been trying to create an image of himself as the moderator type in politics, was just as anxious as Goldwater to come to grips with the issue of labor reform.

Both had read the omen correctly. The country was ready for labor reform in 1959.

It was ready to settle a question of principle.

It was ready for the tough language of the Landrum-Griffin bill in the House, not the milder language of the Kennedy-Ervin bill in the Senate.

In the showdown on the two bills, only Oregon's predictable Sen. Morse did what he always can be depended on to. He alone refused to sign the conference committee report and he alone took it upon himself to fowl up Senate acceptance of the report with one of his famous wind-blown dissertations.

Elsewhere, the issue was closed. Congress had come to the end of its patience with the attitude and practices of unionists who think and act as if they are above the spirit and letter of the law.

It was ready for another of the periodic crackdowns that keep willful minorities in line. Everybody is on the receiving end of a crackdown sooner or later — the corporations and trusts, the securities and exchange industry, purveyors of foods and drugs.

It was organized labor's turn in 1959. A dozen years ago, it was organized labor's turn in a previous instance, when its abuses of government-granted power led to the Taft-Hartley Act.

It may not be another dozen years before the next crackdown—not with James R. Hoffa having hired more than 100 lawyers to tell him how he can get around this year's law and the AFL-CIO having taken the first steps to punish every legislator supposed to be living happily in big labor's pocket.

Progress In Big Red School House

A new school term has opened in Russia and with it has opened what the Kremlin bosses have been proclaiming for more than a year as a new era in Soviet education.

It marks the inauguration of something different in Communist five-year plans. This plan aims at introducing "work" as a subject to be taught in the public schools. The purpose, according to its designers, is to teach Russian children "a healthy respect for work."

This assumes that the generations which now comprise the adult working force in Russia grew up lacking a healthy respect for work. And that, in fact, was what Premier Khrushchev conceded when he first threw out the idea of revising the curriculum. He said Soviet youngsters were completing school without the "proper attitude for labor."

That may seem to be a paradox for a society theoretically dedicated to the dictatorship of the proletariat, but on second thought it is not so surprising. In practice, the Russian worker has had a pretty limited experience in what labor can mean.

To him, it could mean slave labor in its most naked form. It could mean slave labor clothed in the skimpiest rags of respectability. Or it could mean Stakhanovism, in which the worker is offered special rewards for giving his best but his best is expected to be more and more.

In any case, the rewards of his labor have amounted to little except the satisfaction of going all out for the state. And, in view of the niggardly return he received from the state, that satisfaction must have seemed a dubious one indeed.

The point the Communist bosses have missed is that proper respect for work depends upon proper respect for the worker. Workers are people, not machines. Machines have no interest in dignity. People do.

Capitalist economies whose production Premier Khrushchev envies so much have recognized the dignity of the worker for at least as long as the Communists have been toying with Karl Marx's proletarian theories.

That is why at this point the Kremlin is trying to catch up with the capitalists, instead of vice versa.

What would be interesting to know is whether the emphasis in the new school curriculum will be on trying to instill respect for the old system of slave labor in varying degrees, or on convincing the students that the state has realized that slave laborers are not workers at all, only living machines.

And that machines have no interest in respect for work.

jackpot with something half as good some day.

Make it singable.

Trite And True

Health Secretary Flemming has gone on a reducing campaign, and the fat is in the fire.

What he wants to reduce is the number of Americans who, because they want to reduce, fall prey to modern medical pitchmen peddling pills, potions and other paraphernalia billed as "the" answer to excess weight.

The purveyors are successful because, though the fat man may act jolly, he is just putting on a big front. Behind it, he is sad.

The secretary warns "there is no such article" as a patent panacea for poundage. Stated another way, there is no easy way out. Anything worth having is worth working for etc. etc.

All of which proves that there are as many clichés for the heavyweight problem as for anything else. The secretary suggests the clincher:

The best exercise for obesity is pushing oneself away from the dinner table.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Embattled home tenants are crying, "To the ramparts," in war on bulldozers suddenly showing up to clear way for overpasses, new highways, etc.

City and state officials held responsible are being hanged in effigy. It's fairly excusable. Who can look placidly on prospect of a thruway which brings traffic roaring within a few inches of the bedroom?

Must tenants have red lights on their beds, chests, chiffoniers and dressing tables? Must a man trying to get a little sleep be protected by sign "Boudoir Under Repair. Move Slowly"?

THINGS HAVE REACHED a point in feverish construction of better roads where the old homestead needs caution lights front and rear and a warning, "Slow Down for Family Reunion 100 Yards Ahead."

Man's home used to be his castle. It is now roadbuilders' target for today.

Every week all over the United States hundreds of homes enjoying rural quiet are suddenly besieged by bulldozers operating in pattern of "A tooth for a tooth and anybody's bungalow for an expressway!"

It is a common experience for people to move into the wide open spaces to enjoy the atmosphere of the birds, bees and brooks, only to wake up some morning in the atmosphere of the blitz, the engineers and construction gangs.

Mommer, finding herself scooped up in a steamshovel, often hollers, "Where's Junior?" and gets a reply, "Here," from a dumpcart leaving with a load of debris and furniture.

POPPER CAN LEAVE a rustic ranchouse in the morning and return at dusk to find remnants of his old homestead surrounded by cement mixers, exhausted surveyors and wrecking apparatus.

There is no trace of the "Home Sweet Home" motto on wall. But over the whole neighborhood flashes a huge sign "The Prentice Z. Pudd Interstate Highway. Dynamite Crews at Work."

The house by the side of the road is in mortal danger. Resistance is natural. Super highways are important. But so is a home.

MISTLETOE BUDS have the ballistic force of missiles, scientist says. They shoot out seeds at an acceleration pace 100 times greater than the peak acceleration of rockets. Maybe it's the smart gals who resist kissing afterward.

JOSEPH WELCH, Boston lawyer, who came into prominence through the McCarthy case, is close to the best actor in "Anatomy of a Murder" and gives a fine touch of realism to the picture. But he would be as astonished (as we were) had he been in a neighborhood nicoleet matinee the other day and seen it largely filled with children 5 to 4 years old, getting the clinical courtroom discussions of sex. Almost none were accompanied by adults. Mommer had evidently seen murder and rape as reasonable movie entertainment for the kiddies.

New York child welfare workers in some instances take kid gang leaders to fresh air camps to change their behavior. Many a decent kid may exclaim, "Look! Blinky is the leader of a mob and how is he punished? They take him swimming and fishing!"

Nothing Personal, You Understand

Mr. K Bones Up Facts And Figures

By Victor Riesel

Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev has been honing up his razor-edged mind on dossiers on American crime and the big time underworld syndicates' invasion of American labor. There is documented reason to believe that U.S. Communists and Khrushchev's own Soviet Tass agents have been pouring memos on the mob into Moscow like vodka into foreign diplomats.

There is documented reason to believe that despite the great pressure of running a vast global machine, the Russian leader and his aides now are thoroughly familiar with labor rackets — especially in Chicago — the one city they decided to study most intensively.

Unless the British MI-5 agents and our own intelligence people are mistaken, Mr. Khrushchev now knows enough to speak glibly of the Mafia, of Al Capone's alleged successors in some Chicago unions and of Sen. McClellan's and Bob Kennedy's probe.

THERE IS NOTHING new in this sudden fascination with the more sordid side of dues-stamp society. I tangled once with a fellow named Molotov.

He then was comrade foreign minister of all the Russians and the bayonets they survey. He had attacked the AFL for refusing to join with the Soviet world labor organization.

I figured I had him. I figured wrong. Molotov knew the inner workings of the AFL, American politics, internal feuds — and he let me know it name by name, insult by insult.

It is not important now to report why that vanishing Russian, V. Molotov, spent many crisis hours studying American labor. It is important to understand why Nikita Khrushchev is going through so many crisis hours boning up on labor, politics and crime in the United States.

His propaganda will be a people-to-people's pitch. He will talk of himself as merely a man of the Russian people.

ALREADY in the official biography spread here by the Soviet Embassy, the Russian Communist chief is discussed in these words:

"Briefly speaking N. S. Khrushchev could be described as a leader of the Lenin type. Nearness to the people is the most typical trait of his character and of his style of work. N. S. Khrushchev maintains close contact with the working masses."

"He often visits factories, construction jobs and collective farms, speaks at meetings and talks to rank-and-file workers. The head of the Soviet government is personally acquainted with thousands of workers, collective farmers, engineers and other workers employed in different parts of the great country."

There is much more about Khrushchev's consultation on affairs of state with every Ivan he can reach. Real rank-and-file comrade stuff.

Well, when word came that the leaders of 13 million U.S. workers wouldn't permit themselves to be consulted by "The Man," orders flashed to America for choice bits for No. 1's briefing.

MOSCOW PRESS and radio began attacking U.S. labor chiefs as "labor bosses" who were committing "treason" against society by rejecting N. S. Khrushchev's personal invitation to dinner.

Khrushchev also directed his ambassador, Mikhail Menshikov, to ask specifically "what would be American labor's attitude and its role in the reception to Khrushchev." He was told personally and publicly.

Now our State Department and intelligence people expect Khrushchev to attack American labor chiefs — except for the eight man group, led by James Carey and Walter Reuther, who will confer with him, probably in a room in San Francisco's Mark Hopkins Hotel on Sept. 21.

N. S. Khrushchev is expected to make his first attack on U.S. labor — namely AFL - CIO president George Meany — during the Russian's National Press Club speech.

He is also expected to use his knowledge of racketeering when he meets with the Carey - Teuther group.

By that time the AFL - CIO convention will have been in session for several days. It can be expected that Mr. Meany, who has a whim of iron and a thrust like an inter-stellar space fuel, will have denounced Khrushchev several times just as the Soviet leader rides up San Francisco's Market St.

Nikita Khrushchev cannot let it get back home that spokesmen for the bulk of America's working people believe him to be an enemy of free labor. This could neutralize much of the effect of his sales trip.

The Worst Is Over

By Truman Twill

Max Frankel wrote a dispatch for The New York Times from Moscow a few days ago describing the coming of fall in the Russian capital. It was a moving bit of poetic prose — poetic because it evoked images of scudding clouds, women huddled in shawls against the encroaching cold and the end of one of the city's loveliest and happiest summers.

Everyone who has a typewriter handy is tempted once a year to take a crack at this theme.

Next to spring, no season sets off half so many high-flown descriptions as the coming of fall. But there is a twist to it, because it is not the coming of fall that brings forth the descriptions. It is the passing of summer.

Summer . . . That's when the cupboard doors, the bathroom doors and the closet doors grow a quarter of an inch and cannot be closed. It isn't too bad with the cupboard doors and the closet doors, it's bad!

That's when the flies crawl in under the screens, follow every person who enters the house and thereafter spend their time walking on the ears and the arms of the occupants.

That's when a myriad of insects too small to be strained out by screen cloth wriggle through whenever the inside lights are turned on and spend happy hours thereafter drowning in drinks, playing hide-and-seek under the bed covers and competing with one another to see how far into the human ear they can crawl before they get stuck fast in ear wax.

That's when mosquitoes, sweat flies and everything else that flies and have a sharp proboscis love to drill through human skin to determine when the threshold of bearable pain has been crossed and the victim will scream a terrible oath and try to inflict death.

Summer . . . That's when a house in the distant suburbs absorbs so much moisture from the night-time mists and day-time rains that it begins to smell like a rare old cheese curd in mold; when water pipes bearing ice-cold well water drip as if they had sprung their seams; when bedding and clothing are damp to the touch for weeks on end.

That's when every luxuriant expanse of green concedes a few tendrils of poison ivy throwing off poisonous capors at a rate sufficient to give the miseries to allergy-prone passersby.

That's when lawn grass fails to show restraint and grows as sturdily in August as it grows in May, necessitating a mowing every fifth day, instead of once a week, which is as often as lawns should have to be mowed in any reasonable climate.

That's when clothing fresh from the cleaners fails to stay fresh past the first half hour and thereafter looks as if it had been worn day and night throughout a journey into the deepest interior of wildest Tibet.

Summer . . . That's when vacationers on the loose with nothing better to do call on old friends in places they are passing through and renew old acquaintance while the clock ticks on and work piles up and plans for an evening cook-out swirl down the drain.

That's when sleepless nights become a way of life instead of an occasional emergency; when "that tired feeling" lingers day in and day out for weeks at a time; when hay fever victims turn into moist caricatures of human beings and asthma sufferers gasp for enough oxygen to carry them through the next 10 minutes.

I can write about autumn as eagerly as the next one, and when I do I waste no time mooning about summer, which lately seems to me to have become a grossly overrated season that wears out its welcome with too much humidity, too many bugs and too much hearty growing of greenery, noxious and otherwise.

Confidential to Max Frankel: I'll bet the Muscovites are glad when it's finally over, too.

Reds' Sense Of Guilt

By David Lawrence

Who Was To Blame For World War II?

Only a sense of guilt could have prompted the Soviet newspapers, radio and publishing houses to launch a barrage of statements claiming that Britain, France and the United States were responsible for the outbreak of World War II.

Because this week marked the 20th anniversary of Hitler's first attack on Poland, there was bound to be a revival of the discussion of who was to blame for the second World War.

But, thanks to the opportunity just afforded unwittingly by the Soviet propagandists, the world will be reminded with renewed emphasis now that it was the Communist regime which really made World War II possible.

Had it not been for the Communist double cross of Britain and France, who in the summer of 1939 were trying to negotiate a treaty with Moscow, the Nazi government in Berlin would never have dared to start World War II.

Hitler wanted to make sure that his Eastern boundary was secure. He knew that a war going on simultaneously on the eastern and western fronts could mean defeat for him. Once, however, he neutralized his eastern borders, there was every chance to overrun Holland, Belgium and France before enough British forces could come to the rescue.

As for the United States, the Nazi chief felt sure he could win a victory before American forces could be mobilized and transported across the Atlantic.

WHAT WOULD the effect have been on Hitler if he had had a hostile Russia poised on his eastern front? He would surely have refrained from taking the military risk he did.

Actually, he was convinced that, despite their belated mobilization, neither Britain nor France would come to the aid of Poland and that, if he struck quickly, he could "localize" the conflict and enter another Munich-like peace conference and consolidate his gains—provided Russia stayed neutral.

The Communists' responsibility for World War II is, therefore, plain to see.

It so happens that the non-aggression pact which Stalin and Molotov signed with Hitler on Aug. 24, 1939, was violated by the Nazi invasion of Russia on June 22, 1941. But during the intervening 22 months the Communist regime in Moscow had made a notable contribution to Hitler's military strategy.

The blunder made by the Kremlin in allying itself with Hitler stands out before the world as an example of stupid diplomacy and a cruel disregard for the fate of the millions of Russians who were sacrificed in the fighting that followed.

Someday, when there is a revolution in Russia and a free press emerges, it is the exposition of this chapter in history which will sound the death knell of the Communists.

For the Moscow press today to try to shift the blame to the West is another instance of stupidity. The people of the West were told at the time, in their newspapers and over the radio, every move that preceded the outbreak of World War II.

This correspondent wrote on Aug. 24, 1939: "The Russian maneuvers have been watched with intense interest, but it cannot be said that they are unexpected. Diplomatic information here for some time has been to the effect that Germany and Russia were apt at any time to draw closer together."

UNDOUBTEDLY the signing of the treaty between the Soviets and the Nazis was designed to give the Moscow regime a free hand to seize Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, and to grab eastern Poland. "This the Russian troops set out to do immediately after Hitler marched into Poland."

"The theory prevailing at the time was that the war over Poland would not turn into a world war, and that it would be 'localized.'"

The Moscow Communists simply played the West against the East so as to get the best agreement possible out of Hitler.

When the Nazi chief double-crossed the Communists and attacked Russia in 1941, the West promptly came to the rescue of the Soviet Union by furnishing billions of dollars' worth of equipment and intensifying the war on the Western Front so as to ease the burden on the Eastern Front.

In the end, Hitler was caught in a squeeze between the Eastern and Western armies, just as he had originally feared, but which he thought he could prevent by a quick victory over western Europe.

Prime Minister MacMillan said the other night in his television broadcast in London with President Eisenhower that the second World War could not have been avoided because of the "plotting by wicked men."

He didn't refer to plotting by "one man," but spoke of "wicked men," which certainly includes the ruler in the Kremlin and his associates.

It is to prevent a miscalculation by a potential aggressor in Moscow that Mr. Eisenhower today favors an explicit reiteration of the determination of the West to fight if its area of interest is attacked.

The repetition of this statement in unqualified terms by all members of the Western alliance this time could prevent another world war.

No Retreat, But Flexible

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most important — or the most unimportant — sentence President Eisenhower spoke on his grand tour of Europe is the kind diplomats dream about. It could mean much or nothing.

This was it: We must not retreat one inch from principle (in dealing with the Soviet Union) but must be flexible in tactics. Flexible is a word made of rubber, a typical diplomatic word which can be stretched in any direction.

It can be made to mean whatever Western leaders want it to mean in any given situation.

It could imply a turning point in the cold war: That this country has decided to abandon its long-established policy of stiff-arming the Soviets in all directions and is now ready to make concessions which might have seemed unthinkable before.

It could mean nothing of the kind: When the times comes for this country to talk business—as it will when Eisenhower meets Premier Nikita Khrushchev here Sept. 15—this country may be willing to yield a bit here or there, but not very much at all.

Or it could mean a real concession. For instance: that this country might be willing to withdraw its troops from West Berlin, as Khrushchev wants, in return for a Soviet guarantee the West will have access to the city through Communist East Germany.

Such a concession might have to be based largely on the hope the Soviets would honor their guarantee and keep the East Germans from any monkey business later to seal off the city from the West.

Or, flexible tactics could mean this country would yield a mean to disarmament or nuclear testing or on checks against cheating but never enough to please the Soviets.

It is this haziness of meaning which has hovered over Eisenhower's whole visit with the Allied leaders of Britain, West Germany and France. There were no solid announcements from any of those visits.

This is understandable, since the Allies might consider themselves chicken-headed to tip their hands before the President had a chance to talk things over in Washington with Khrushchev.

Eisenhower had been anxious not to raise hopes high for any real solutions in his conversations with the Soviets. It is possible his visit to the three Allied countries has now done just the opposite of what he wanted.

He received a warm welcome in all three countries. But at best, his trip was only a preparation for the real business of dealing with Khrushchev. Whether any real or lasting good came of it cannot be gauged now.

Just how much good Eisenhower accomplished may be revealed if he does reach some understandings with Khrushchev and then seeks Allied approval.

Odd Facts

The famed Statue of Liberty's "hand" was completed first and sent to the United States from France ahead of the rest of the monument. It arrived in time for, and was set up as an attraction at the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876, several years before the complete statue was unveiled in New York.

Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche (1844-1900), the famed German philosopher, promulgated the doctrine of the "Superman," and the suppression of the weak, which was later followed by Hitler. Paradoxically, Nietzsche was later compelled to resign his professorship at the University of Basel because of ill health!

The state of Nevada has the highest rate of marriage, in proportion to population, in the United States, while Tennessee has fewer marriages per head than any other state.

KEEP YOUR LABOR DAY SAFE!

Organized labor long has worked to prevent accidents and correct unsafe working conditions. On this Labor Day weekend, we of Local Union No. 1212, United Steelworkers of America urge every union member to drive carefully and avoid traffic accidents. One of the basic ideals of unionism is the protection of the workingman's health and happiness. American workers have achieved remarkable records for safety on the job, but, too often, those same safe practices are forgotten at quitting time. For every worker killed in an accident on the job, two or more workers are killed in an accident away from the job. The safety committee of Local Union No. 1212, United Steelworkers of America says we've got to learn to take those safe working habits beyond the plant into the home and onto the highway. This holiday weekend don't be a sucker for speed — If you drink, don't drive — And, yield the right-of-way to the reckless guy who's just an accident going someplace to happen.

Tragedy Obscured Sometimes

Comedy In History Of FBI

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation is noted more for its sense of justice than its sense of humor.

That fact, of course, is inherent in the nature of its job.

The task of catching thousands of criminals yearly is deadly serious work. It can be deadly dangerous, too. A number of J. Edgar Hoover's men have given up their lives in the line of duty.

But even the grimmest police work sometimes has its wryly humorous side—times when comedy for a moment obscures the tragedy.

When Warner Bros. decided to do a film dramatizing Don Whitehead's best seller, "The FBI Story," it undertook meticulous research into the bureau's operation to insure authenticity.

Here are a few of the lighter episodes in the FBI's crowded history:

Agents once arrested a 19-year-old girl accused of being an accessory in a bank robbery. Under questioning she strenuously denied any knowledge of the crime.

She was told her bail would be $5,000, and agents asked where she could raise such a sum.

"Well," she said, "I guess I could rob another bank."

There was a sudden silence, which the girl broke by observing ruefully: "Oops. I shouldn't have said 'another,' should I?"

In Houston FBI agents trailed two members of a car theft ring to a hotel.

Finding the door ajar, they stepped quickly into the room, told one of the surprised thieves: "We're FBI agents. You are under arrest!"

From an adjoining room came a terrified shout from the second thief: "Don't shoot! I'm clean!" He was. He was sitting in the bathtub covered with lather.

During one recent investigation an agent served as assistant funeral director, rode in the funeral coach—and even helped in the burial of a man who was a close acquaintance of a fugitive the bureau was seeking.

Now and then a fugitive can be extraordinarily helpful to the FBI. One such was a man wanted for interstate transportation of stolen property. When arrested, he had in his pocket a "wanted" circular which described him fully.

Another, an ex-convict, had in his possession when caught an official copy of his FBI identification record.

He explained he had stolen it several years before from a sheriff's office while working there as a trusty.

Obliquely, he had kept the record up to date himself by writing in the data concerning his later arrests—strictly as a matter of pride.

perhaps even a superstition, he said.

"Is there no such thing as moral responsibility and social accountability at all?" he asked. "Who would seriously hold that a society could long endure which consistently subscribed to this flaccid doctrine?"

Road To Mental Illness

Psychologist Says Guilt Source Of All Human Evils

By JOHN BARBOUR

Associated Press Science Writer
CINCINNATI (AP)—One trouble with sin is that it requires that the sinner feel guilt, a New York psychologist said today.

And guilt, said Dr. Albert Ellis, is "the source of all human evils," and the road to mental illness.

If man could realize right from wrong without introducing the factor of blame or guilt, he would be much farther ahead, Dr. Ellis said.

For instance, when a child does something bad, he is not a bad child—he is a good child doing a bad act. Somehow or other we must learn to dissociate the blame from the discipline, he stated.

Dr. Ellis said that an objective way of looking at wrongdoing would be that it should not be done again—and how can the wrong-doer best defend against it.

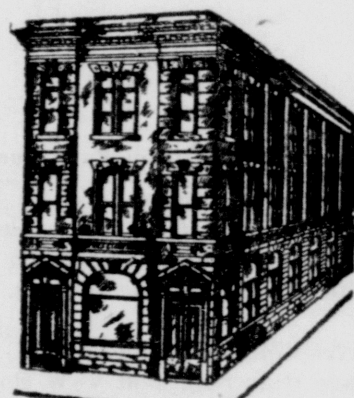

This no-blame way of looking at misbehavior, he said, is better than the alternative which he outlined this way:

"The individual can say to himself: If I do this act it will be wrong; and if I do this wrong act, I will be a sinner, a blackguard, a louse. If this is what the individual says to himself, and firmly believes, he will then perhaps be moral in his behavior, but only at the expense of having severe feelings of worthlessness—of being a sinner."

In an interview Dr. Ellis said that blame or guilt come from believing in a God who proclaimed sin. If we stopped belief in all kinds of gods and submission to non-human authority, we would aid the cause of mental health, he said.

Members of the same panel at the American Psychological Assn. meeting disagreed with Dr. Ellis. Some persons, said Dr. O. Hobart Mowrer of the University of Illinois, insist that they cannot tell right from wrong—and that no one else can.

There are people who would claim that sin cannot be defined, that it is an unscientific concept, that morality is a relative thing,

But Swift and Wilson stood firm despite the intervention of federal mediators who have held virtually continuous sessions with both sides for the last 48 hours.

The unions announced their strike calls in two joint scathing indictments of the latest Wilson and Swift offers.

The Swift demands, they charged, were "arrogant and adamant."

In answer, Swift said the "action of union leaders in ordering employees to leave their job violates a clear understanding reached before the U.S. conciliator that bargaining on a new contract would be recessed until Sept. 8."

The Swift proposal called for wage gains similar to those negotiated with Armour and Co. earlier in the week plus 14 cents an hour—representing cost of living adjustments for the past three years.

Wilson's offer called for wage and benefit increases totaling 22½ cents an hour over a two-year period.

Present pay in the industry averages about $2.56 an hour.

The recent Armour pact calls for increased pay and benefits totaling about 22 cents an hour.

Pickets quickly appeared at Swift plants in Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, New Haven, Nashville, Baltimore and Vernon, Calif.

Man Due Hearing For Hitting Meter As Drink's Denied

A LaCrosse man is scheduled for a Municipal Court hearing Saturday morning on a charge he damaged an E. 6th St. parking meter by striking it with his fist after he was denied a drink in a nearby bar on the grounds he was intoxicated.

Bud Fleming, arraigned this morning before Judge George L. Brokaw, told the court he did not recall the alleged incident. The court entered a not guilty plea for him and set bond at $16 pending the hearing. The charge is "malicious destruction of city property."

Fleming was fined $10 and costs on an intoxication charge. He pleaded guilty.

Police reported Fleming was taken into custody at 5:50 p. m. on E. 6th St. by Patrolmen R. E. Higgins and Orin Smith and Lt. Thomas A. Walker. Police said Fleming was refused a drink in Freed's Tavern "because he was intoxicated."

"Enraged, he went outside and was next seen hitting a parking meter in front of the tavern with his fist," the report said. Police said the glass in the meter head was broken. Then Fleming entered a truck parked at the meter and went to sleep, officers reported.

Favor Special Youth Camps

Wagner, Rockefeller Seek To Counter Juvenile Crime

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller meet today to consider measures aimed at counteracting rising juvenile crime.

After separate sessions Thursday, the mayor and governor each said they favored a program of special youth camps akin to the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) of depression days. The state now has two work camps for young offenders.

The roundup of teen-age hoodlums continued with the arrest of four boys accused of stabbing 18-year-old Dominick Scudiere Wednesday. Held on assault charges were Israel Sannago, 18, his brother Ephraim, 16, and Victor de la Paz, 17. The fourth boy, 13, was held for Children's Court as a juvenile delinquent.

Scudiere and three chums were attacked by about 15 members of the Majestics gang on a Brooklyn street. Scudiere and his friends did not belong to any gang, police said.

The public and state and city officials have been thoroughly aroused by the surge in youth violence which has taken four lives since Aug. 23 and caused many injuries through stabbings, gunplay and beatings.

Within five hours after asserting attacking a nurse in a subway train Thursday, a 14-year-old Negro boy was seized and committed to the state training school at Warwick, N. Y. Police said the boy, Grant Young, tried to assault the nurse, Calara Reese, 23, by threatening her with an eight-inch carving knife. A conductor pulled the emergency cord and a subway patrolman captured Grant.

Wagner ordered City Budget Director Abraham D. Beame to divert 2½ million dollars from other programs to add 1,089 policemen to the force and bring it up to its full quota of 24,508 men. It was hoped that the additional patrolmen would be on the streets by Jan. 1.

Labor Division Seeks $2 Million For Policing Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department is seeking a two-million-dollar appropriation to start the vast corruption policing job given it under the labor control bill now clearing Congress.

The department doesn't know how much money and men it will need for the task but has requested that sum as a starter until next year.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, expecting a flood of complaints related to corruption and forbidden union practices, plans to recruit a unit of agents to run down tips and bring violators to court if need be.

Mitchell, or those he designates, is being vested with blanket power to subpoena witnesses and records.

There was a movement too to set up a special Senate group to keep an eye on how well the law works out.

But it is the secretary of labor who, under the law, will be in charge of policing all major anti-corruption provisions and union democracy safeguards.

It will be his job to see that the required union fund accounting is true and correct; that embezzlers are brought to book; that employer payoffs are discovered; that rights guaranteed to union members are observed; that phony union elections are canceled and reheld.

Air Force Gives Up Hunt For 'Ghost Bomber' Crew

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—The U.S. Air Force has given up its search for the remains of nine crewmen of a World War II "ghost bomber."

The American fliers parachuted into the Libyan desert from their B24 bomber 16 years ago after blasting Naples, Italy.

Their plane was found last spring by a team of geologists. It had apparently made a pilotless belly-landing on the hard-packed sand 440 miles southeast of the Libyan port city of Benghazi.

The bomber bore no combat scars. Logbook, instruments and radio was untouched. Water jugs were full and flight gear was hanging from racks inside the plane.

Termination of the combined air-ground search leaves one of the great mysteries of World War II unsolved.

The search, which began July 5, covered more than 6,000 miles and no new traces of the missing crewmen were found, the Air Force said.

The first search by an investigating team uncovered a trail of markers left by the airmen—strips of parachute weighted by stones and flight boots. Searchers said this indicated that the majority of the men got together after bailing out and headed north toward the sea.

The expanded search in July used helicopters and vehicles.

Red Germany Seeks To Tempt U.S. Drinker

LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP)—Communist East Germany wants to tempt the American beer drinker with a square bottle he can use for a glass brick when it's empty.

The advertising slogan will be something like:

"Build your house with beer." If you already have a house, you can use the bottles to put a glass wall on the summer cottage or to insulate a garage floor.

This brainstorm was shown at the Leipzig Autumn Fair.

Brewery representatives say they need an American firm to go in with them and pay the heavy expense of promotion.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I never thought I'd wind up on your "couch" in print. But then I suppose they all say that!

I went with this perfectly beautiful girl four months. She was so magnificent that for three months I was mesmerized by her indescribable beauty.

I read her poems by Pound and Kunitz. She was a great listener. I bought her albums of Chopin and Brahms. She smiled her thanks. Then suddenly I saw the bare face of truth. What I had imagined was tranquility, depth and inner security, was only silence—born of ignorance.

When I tried to recall a single statement from this girl which reflected an original idea, I was stymied. She was a fraud.

I have three degrees, Ann, but this idiot-beauty who I'm sure never saw the 10th grade, duped me. Please pass the word along. It may save another idealist four months and $1,000 in books, records, flowers and gifts.—VOLTARE.

Dear Voltaire: Why is the girl a fraud? Did she tell you she was on the faculty at Harvard?

You were so snowed by her looks that all your male impulses went on active duty and your brains went AWOL. You tried to build a dream castle and move this brainless female in. Your attempt to spin a shimmering cocoon of magic around a beautiful (but dumb) dame didn't work. It never does. So — take your medicine like a little man.

Distrustful Parents

Dear Ann: Maybe if you publish this letter it will help my cause.

I got my driver's license a few days ago. I passed the test with flying colors. Now my folks won't let me drive unless one of them is with me. I've been practicing for three years and I'm as good a driver as either of them. Yet they say I haven't had enough experience to take the car alone.

How can I get experience if they won't let me have the car? If you can explain this I'll be grateful—LIZ.

Dear Liz: Be patient, Lamb—your time will come. Drive whenever you get the chance. After awhile they'll get used to the idea that you're a competent driver. Then you'll be permitted to take the car on your own.

Grace Church's Circle Will Hold Member Drive

Plans for a membership campaign this month were discussed at the circle meetings of the Presbyterian Women's Association of the Grace United Presbyterian Church Tuesday.

The Dorcas Circle met with Mrs. Agnes Barrett of Ohio Ave. Mrs. Otis Doughty conducted devotions on "Prayer" and read Scripture from Matt. 6, followed by a period of silent prayer for missionaries and the sick.

Mrs. Mabel Waggle led the Bible study on "Rejecting the Spirit." Members closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

Mrs. Helen Reed, chairman, presided for business.

The circle will be hostess unit

Nagging and begging is a sign of childishness, so lay off and you'll achieve your goal sooner.

Pampered Males

Dear Ann: Lately I've been reading articles entitled "Is Dad Just A Meal Ticket?" "Are American Wives Pampered?" "Has the Male Lost His Place as Head of the American Family?"

I'd like to ask the following questions: "Is Mom just a housekeeper?" "Do American men have life too soft?"

True, women don't have to work as hard as their grandmothers did but neither do men. Today the 40-hour week is considered "too long." They want 35. The young man out of college who is looking for a job wants to know what the pension plan is before he'll consider it.

Mom doesn't get any such deal. Being a wife and mother means 24-hours-a-day duty.

This malarky about a woman's being boss is a joke. I've yet to see a wife who could watch the TV program of her choice when a fight or a cowboy movie was on.

If there's any pampering going on it's the men who are getting it. American husbands are the most spoiled males on the face of the earth. Mom starts it and the wife takes over from there.—SADIE.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

for the general meeting Sept. 29 at the church.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. James Double.

The next meeting will be Oct. 6 and the place will be announced. Mrs. Louise Dotson and Mrs. Dorothy Smith will be hostesses. Mrs. Laura Ruth Clarke was a hostess for the McLain Circle at the church.

A meditation "Rise and Stand," from Presbyterian Life, a religious magazine, was given by Mrs. Mabel Conley for the worship service. She read Scripture from the Book of Acts and offered prayer.

Mrs. Erma Conklin conducted the Bible study.

Mrs. Phyllis Conley, co-chairman, presided for business with routine reports given by chairmen.

Members brought combs and adhesives for the health aid kits to be sent to mission stations.

Cards were signed for the sick. Mrs. Evelyn Owens was a guest. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Gertrude Blevins.

The next meeting will be Oct. 6 and the place is pending.

Eye Compromise Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise money bill for military construction is up for approval in the Senate and House. The compromise was worked out Thursday by a conference committee. The bill totals $1,363,961,200. This is $199,238,800 less than President Eisenhower recommended, $64,217,500 less than the Senate voted and $78,953,500 more than the House voted.

Mr., Mrs. Lester V. Hissom At Home After Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Virgil Hissom have returned from a honeymoon touring the Southern States and are residing at 163 Haywood St., following their marriage, Aug. 22 in the Pennsylvania Ave. Methodist Church.

The bride is the former Miss Velma Watson, daughter of Mrs. Mahala Watson of Haywood St., and the late Walter Watson, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Okey Hissom of Finley Rd., Chester.

Palms and white mums formed the altar setting for the open church ceremony. The Rev. Glenn Brunstetter, pastor, officiated for the double-ring rites.

Earl Hill presented a half-hour of traditional organ music and the Rev. Paul Brooks of Newell sang "If I Could Tell You" and "Seal Us, O Holy Spirit."

Given in marriage by her uncle, John Shay, the bride wore a gown made by her mother and aunts, Mrs. Pearl Shay and Mrs. Elsie Hoschar. It was ballroom-length, fashioned of white Chantilly lace over satin. Long, pointed sleeves highlighted the fitted bodice. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a tulle and satin crown trimmed with lily-of-the-valley.

She carried her mother's gift, a white Bible, topped with an arrangement of orchids, stephanotis and lily-of-the-valley attached to streamers. She observed all the familiar customs and wore a single strand of pearls and matching earrings.

Miss Sue Jean Kountz was the maid of honor and appeared in a blue silk-over-white satin dress. She wore a matching bandeau and carried a Colonial bouquet of carnations.

Bernard Hissom served as his brother's best man and ushers were Robert Watson, Ralph Watson and Raymond Watson, brothers of the bride.

An orchid print dress with white accessories was worn by the bride's mother and her corsage was of pink carnations and white beaded flowers. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a blue lace dress with white accessories and a blue carnation and white beaded flower corsage.

A reception for 100 followed in the social rooms. A six-tier cake with a miniature bridal couple, and encircled by white mums and carnations, centered the buffet table. Bridal candles in crystal holders completed the setting.

Aides were Mrs. Dorothy Anderson, Mrs. Kathryn Baldwin, Mrs. Jean Farnsworth, Mrs. Julia Farnsworth, Miss Dawn Buckley, Miss Delores Grimm and Miss Jeanne Tice.

For going away, the bride wore a mint green Cuponi dress with white accessories and her bridal orchids.

The bride is a graduate of East Liverpool High School and attended the Ohio Valley Business College. She is employed in the office of the Patterson Foundry & Machine Co.

Her husband was graduated from Chester High School and is a member of the Marine Corps Reserve.

Out-of-town guests were from Florida, Youngstown, Akron, Hubbard, McKeesport, Beaver Falls, Hammondsville, Wellsville and Newell.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

Poetry: The Only Hope

Louis Untermeyer is a poet who looks and sounds like a staccato eagle and who thinks poetry is the only hope of our beat-up generation. He's also the author of a book called "Lives of the Poets," brashly following in the footsteps of Samuel Johnson, whose best book had the same title and same wildly ambitious outlines. Untermeyer is a veritable torrent of opinion on the subject of poetry, a topic that has not been exactly at the top of the hit parade for some years now, and the other day I asked him to say a few words on the subject — which is something like pulling your finger out of the dike in Holland.

John Crosby

"W. H. AUDEN, one of the greatest poets this century has produced," proclaimed Mr. Untermeyer, "once called this the Age of Anxiety, which I think is a brilliant term."

"This is the Age of Anxiety—politically, socially, culturally and poetically. Poets and writers and musicians and sculptors reflect our terrific insecurity and so creators, instead of using our common language — the written word — try to get to the audience in a new and different way, either yelling above the din that is going on—radio, television — or speaking so quietly hardly anyone hears them."

"The cure for this is the recognition of the basic simple facts of poetry. The geniuses of tomorrow in poetry will be the ones who write the shoving ads along the road or the headache tablet ads in the buses."

"There is supposed to be a basic prejudice against poetry; it's too esoteric, too highbrow, or any of those other words you find in Roger's Thesaurus."

"What most of us don't realize is that everyone loves poetry. They have it everywhere—good rhymes, perfect rhythm which could not be better if Pope himself had written them."

"THE PROSE is also wonderful," Mr. Untermeyer observed owlishly. "That prose one reads in the ads telling you the facts about your stomach lining, the glamor of burping to a stomach settler."

"What would the Maguire sisters do without poetry? Poetry has rhythm, rhyme, beat and emotional impact — on your stomach lining if so directed."

"We are caught between the high-brows being derisive or popular poetry and the people being derisive of highbrow poetry. Until we realize it's only a common meeting ground and both the so-called high-and lowbrow poetry have the same impulse we won't get anywhere."

"Is Ogden Nash only a funny poet? I don't think so. He's a social critic, makes fun of many things we think sacrosanct. Mr. Auden is not only a very serious poet but a very witty one."

"Good poetry has sounded every level between the so-called high-and lowbrows. There is a good deal in poetry for any reader. We quote more from Pope in our daily life than from anything else except the Bible and Shakespeare.

"Poetry is part of our life—commercially. Poetry was written for the vulgar; they sang it before it was printed as the beatnik poets do today."

WHAT ABOUT the beatniks, Mr. Untermeyer was asked? "I think beatniks have this to say — 'We don't want your world, your values or your morals. You'll go to church when you've stopped believing. We want out.'"

"This is all a gesture of defiance, a gesture of rebellion. They rebuke the older generation and that's good. But their philosophy is destructive because this is a destructive age we're living in."

"Disillusionment also is a serious fallout. Man is a talking animal and I'm all for the beatniks' expressing themselves in prose or in poetry."

He sighed: "You wanted to know if I was going on television. I don't like television or radio. Poetry once had a large audience but it did not then have these large mechanical competitors — television and the newspapers."

"Why, once they used to read poetry at home. They even talked to each other at home, had conversations and everything. Before poetry comes back, conversation will have to come back."

"I don't know if this will happen. I hear classrooms now are equipped with television and soon everyone will be taught by television, thus eliminating the teacher who gave you personal contact. We will then definitely become a nation of observers."

Traffic Deaths In State Down, Survey Indicates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A seven-month report on Ohio traffic deaths shows a five per cent improvement over figures for the similar period of 1958.

During the first seven months this year 908 persons were killed, compared with 957 in 1958, according to J. Grant Keys, highway safety director.

Urban traffic deaths decreased from 327 last year to 259 for 1959. But fatalities in rural areas have increased—630 last year to 649 this year.

In cities over 25,000 population, no deaths were reported in Alliance, Barboursville, Cuyahoga Falls, East Cleveland, Elyria, Euclid, Kettering, Mansfield, Maple Heights, Massillon, Newark, Parma, Portsmouth and Shaker Heights.

Counties with the biggest number of traffic deaths are: Cuyahoga 77, Hamilton 53, Summit 36, Franklin 36, Montgomery 27, Stark 25, Lucas 24 and Mahoning 23.

Court's Order Halts Printing Of Big Ballots

The Columbiana County Election Board today ordered a halt in printing ballots on a so-called "metropolitan federation" proposal scheduled to be decided by Ohio voters at the Nov. 3 election pending the outcome of a court action seeking to keep the question off the ballot.

The order to hold up printing was given to the Dodge Publishing Co. of Salem, ballot contractor, after the board conferred by telephone with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown at Columbus about the court test over the question.

Common Pleas Court in Franklin County has issued a temporary order denying the submission on the grounds of improper procedure in enactment and certification of the question by the State Legislature. The final decision must await a hearing on a move to make the temporary order permanent.

A decision is expected by Oct. 1, which is the deadline for beginning publication of the required legal notices listing details of the vote on the question. The metropolitan federation question would not affect Columbiana County. It provides for a county charter form of government for an exchange of municipal and county services. In order to set up such a system, a county must have at least one city with a population of 50,000 or more.

The question is one of three proposed state constitutional amendments scheduled to appear on a ballot 24-x-14 inches. The other two would permit a municipality to sell surplus water and sewer services and authorize the legislature to enact a law increasing the number of judges in an appellate court district from the present three.

The Salem concern has set the type for the big ballot, but none has been printed.

On Highway Construction

Senate Okay On Gas Tax To Spur Ohio Contracts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If the U.S. Senate approves a federal gasoline tax increase next week, Ohio's Highway Department can return to the big leagues in road construction contract letting.

In nine contract lettings this year, the Highway Department has awarded $52,473,420 worth of highway contracts.

The difference is in interstate projects, on which the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost. In those first nine contract lettings last year, 22 interstate projects accounted for $76,559,561 of the $98,865,458.

So far this year, the department has awarded only one interstate project, for 5½ miles of the Cincinnati-to-Connecticut Freeway (Ohio 1) in Franklin County. It amounts to about a million dollars a mile.

It is the interstate highway building program that's at stake in the Senate. Congress and the administration have been trying for weeks to come up with a method for the federal government to continue paying its 90 per cent.

Thursday, the House of Representatives agreed, 223-162, to a penny increase in the federal gas tax. The proposal is expected to come before the Senate about Wednesday.

Ohio has taken a leading part in the long range interstate program, which is planned to connect the nation's major cities in a 41,000-mile super highway system by the early 1970's.

Because of its leading role, the state is committed to some 40 million dollars worth of work for which there is no definite promise of repayment from the federal government. This, plus failure of the federal government to decide on a means of financing and to allot a certain amount against which to make commitments for fiscal 1961 and later, has made the Highway Department reluctant to commit itself further.

In fact, highway director Everett S. Preston cut off all federal projects from last Tuesday's contract letting and it turned out to be the smallest of the year.

About 12 million dollars worth of federally assisted projects are on the list for the Sept. 15 bid opening. Accounting for more than half this total is one interstate project, river piers for a bridge on the Toledo expressway system over the Maumee River.

While pleased with the House's approval of the gas tax boost, Preston is taking a "wait and see" attitude as far as the Senate is concerned. If there's no action by late next week, he says, the federal projects will be deleted from the Sept. 15 bid opening.

"This isn't any kind of pressure move," he says. "We just can't afford to commit too much money until we're sure of repayment."

Preston said the 223-162 margin in the House Thursday particularly pleased him.

Some Highway Department officials say privately that they feel House approval means "the battle is about 60 per cent won."

Gen. Montero Dares Ouster By Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Gen. Carlos Toranzo Montero today challenged the government's order ousting him as army chief, declaring that 95 per cent of the army was behind him.

Toranzo Montero made the statement after a tense night during which President Arturo Frondizi announced that troops were marching on military barracks where the general set up rebel headquarters. Only two tanks appeared near the barracks but they held their fire.

Shortly before dawn, Toranzo Montero conferred with Frondizi. He told newsmen afterwards the rebel officers are not seeking to overthrow the Frondizi government. Their dispute, the general said, is with Secretary of War Elbio Anaya.

Toranzo Montero said he reached a truce with Frondizi and declared there now would be a "waiting spell" in the military crisis.

Government sources said the resignation of Anaya fired Toranzo Montero in a dispute over reshuffling of key posts in the army.

Anaya declined comment after the meeting and said only the President would make an announcement.

Anaya had ordered the arrest of 17 army generals who refused to accept Toranzo Montero's ouster.

Toranzo Montero quit the army during the regime of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron. The general returned to service after the 1955 revolution.

Peculiar Legal Twist Occurs In Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The government attorney wanted to dismiss charges against four men. Their attorneys objected.

U.S. Commissioner T. V. Cashen told the attorneys Thursday to put their arguments in writing and come back in two weeks.

John L. Briggs, assistant U.S. attorney, said he wanted to dismiss the charges of possessing materials intended for moonshine whiskey and then present the cases to a grand jury.

Defense attorneys called the government action a subterfuge "to keep us from finding out what is the evidence against these men."

Nurses Given Diplomas And Awards Here

Twenty girls, one of the largest graduating classes in history, received diplomas Thursday night when the City Hospital School of Nursing held its 48th annual commencement in the Trinity United Presbyterian Church on E. 4th St.

A capacity crowd of more than 800 attended the colorful exercises, which climaxed three years of training by the graduates.

The dignity of work and the dignity of the individual was emphasized by Eugene Carr of Canton, director of radio for Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., who delivered the principle address.

Carr, deploring what he called the tendency toward "group thinking", urged the nurses to develop the individual traits with which they were endowed.

He pointed out that the individual is the key to his own life and reminded his audience that "Christ was concerned with the life of the individual and not the group."

The speaker lamented the fact that too often today a job "is something we do between weekends."

"We must develop a new respect for work," he emphasized, urging that we "take the priceless qualities with which we have been endowed and channel them properly so that life will become rich, full and rewarding."

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Edith S. Gilmore.

The program also included presentation of diplomas by Mrs. Sarah E. Davis, director of the School of Nursing; vocal selections by Sara Gaston Riel; presentation of awards by Mrs. Francis Lang, chairman of the Nursing School Committee, and organ selections by Jessie Hall Kaufman.

The Rev. M. Rudolph Miller of the Trinity church gave the invocation and benediction.

Following the exercises, a reception was held in the church social rooms under the supervision of the Women's Auxiliary, with Mrs. W. E. Dunlap, chairman.

Committees included: Hostesses, Mrs. William J. Horger, Mrs. Walter Smith, Mrs. Lettie Hunsicker and Mrs. Dunlap; tables, Mrs. Ernest Bates and Mrs. Richard Graham; punch, Mrs. Everson Hall, Mrs. Robert Wells, Mrs. Richard Moninger, Mrs. William Laughlin and Mrs. Virginia McKee; lunch, Mrs. R. Heat Blamed For June 28 Train Mishap

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission said today that 98-degree temperature triggered a wreck that spilled freight cars off a trestle into a recreation area near Mel-drum, Ga. last June 28. Twenty-three persons were killed.

The heat, the most severe in the vicinity in many days, caused the rails to spread with the result that 16 cars of the 124-car train left the tracks, the commission said.

Some of the cars plunged over the side of the trestle into the Ogeechee River. Two cars loaded with propane gas exploded, sending a flash fire over the recreation area.

ICC investigators reported that if the trestle had been provided with guard rails, the derailed equipment probably would not have left the trestle.

The commission recommended that the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, owner of the trestle and operator of the train, consider installing these guard devices on its bridges and trestles. The report noted that the Assn. of American Railroads recommends their use on such structures.

The accident occurred at 3:40 p.m. on a hot Sunday which had drawn a large crowd to the recreation ground for swimming, fishing and picnicking.

They constituted the only substantial number of people gathered in one spot for many miles around.

The commission said investigation showed no defects in the train equipment.

An Unusual Musical Instrument Displayed

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — An unusual musical instrument is on display at the Kentucky Historical Society Museum — a giraffe piano.

It belonged to the family of Confederate Gen. John Hunt Morgan and for many years was thought to be a harpsichord, a popular instrument of the 18th Century and a forerunner of the piano.

The giraffe piano was so named because the long-curved post of the harp resembled the neck of a giraffe.

Big Loaf Of Bread Baked For Tiny Bundle

SAYREVILLE, N. J. (AP) — Bernard Saunders baked a five foot long loaf of challah — a Jewish bread — to celebrate the birth of his son.

Saunders, a bakery owner, used 50 pounds of flour to make the 45-pound loaf. "If my oven was larger," he said, "I would have made a bigger one."

Falls, seventh vice president, checked several pieces of property near the present headquarters for possible parking space.

"The assessed value and expected prices asked by the owners were out of reason for parking," Wheatley said, explaining the union then acquired the two new sites.

The 1959 convention supported the finance committee's report to go ahead with construction "by a very large majority" in a voice vote, the president said.

Wheatley said he wrote an open letter to members because Smith's "very ambiguous but insinuating questions reflect on the ethics of the IBOP's highest tribunal, the Convention."

The international president asserted the questions Smith asked were "leading and loaded" and said he was aware that Smith now is not active in an IBOP local "or you could not have indicated the lack of knowledge to throw yourself so wide open with such a ridiculous quiz."

The union officer declared "several dead duck, dihard politicians, inactive or semi-retired from the trade, working the beat from the Council Chamber at City Hall to the Diamond" started a move to attempt to overthrow or undo "much of the progressive action taken by the delegates, or supreme court of 1959."

Wheatley pointed out in his letter that only 32 members are required to upset the action of an international convention "unless the remainder of East Liverpool and other international locals' membership prevents such illogical proceedings."

To legally initiate a referendum vote of the trade on a resolution, only requires 8 local unions or 8 quorums of 7 each, the president explained. A majority of each quorum would be 4 to bring the total to 32, he continued.

Wheatley then launched into a point-by-point reply to Smith's questions.

He asserted the elected representatives of each local should have voted one way or another on the proposition of a new headquarters building at the Montreal convention in July. "The Executive Board did not steam roll or ram the building down any delegate's neck," Wheatley declared.

Replying to Smith's query on whether "this castle on the lake" will be self-supporting or whether taxes and maintenance will be a constant drain on the treasury, Wheatley said the union now is not self-supporting. He explained only income from investments has kept it in the black.

In concluding, Wheatley wrote he had this advice for the trade:

"Make it a militant, progressive union, not an insurance and welfare union. You have had three strikes in a little better than a year which, including pulling in some of your good investments for cash, will add up to approximately $1 million.

"The strike treasury is one thing that will create worthwhile respect for your union.

"No one has gone strike crazy nor will your officials ask the members to 'hit the bricks' because with the present Taft-Hartley Act around organized labor's neck you can be sure any such action these days will be legal so far as your officials are concerned."

People Feeling Sting Of Beekeeping Hobby

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Backyard beekeeping may be a profitable hobby for some people, but their neighbors say that they're just getting stung.

The state agriculture department's latest count of the New Jersey honeybee population shows a rise of 100 million, mostly in hives of amateur beekeepers. The agency also notes a growing number of protests have forced communities to pass laws prohibiting the hives.

Motorist Wins Dime 'Playing' Curb Meter

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — When George Ortland put a nickel in a meter so he could park his car for a half-hour, the meter registered the 30 minutes and immediately threw back the nickel.

Ortland put the nickel in again. The meter chalked up another 30 minutes' credit — and again gave him his nickel back.

Ortland sent 10 cents to Newark police accompanied by the following note:

"This is the best nickel machine I ever played."

Junk Yard

4 of the regulatory ordinance, which Council enacted Jan. 19. The section provides that "no junk shall be stored in the city unless the same be in a building or enclosed yard. It also requires that "adequate passageways" must be kept in stored junk and that no scrap may be piled closer than five feet inside the fence that encloses the yard.

One of the principal provisions of the ordinance requires all scrap dealers to enclose their property with a fence at least seven feet high. Among other things, it also regulates burning of refuse.

Although Atty. Berman did not tell the court on what points he will attack the ordinance, he evidently will stress that it is so-called "class legislation," aimed at one particular business. State law generally forbids discriminatory or class legislation.

Police reported Paul Berman was cited at 1:30 p.m. yesterday at a scrap yard on W. 4th St.

In his remarks to the court about the constitutionality of the ordinance, Atty. Berman said: "We may as well dispose of that point first."

"That's not the proper way to attack it," the judge replied. "We will have to find first if there is a violation. You'll have to try your facts. If he hasn't transgressed any law, he will be free."

The solicitor, after requesting the continuance, said that McDaniel might be available to testify to-day, despite the fact he was off duty. However, the judge set the hearing for next Thursday morning.

Two other scrap yard operators were arrested in August for alleged violations. Lantford Blevins, 1618 Cleveland Ave., was given 30 days to comply with the ordinance after he pleaded not guilty to a charge of maintaining a junk yard without having it enclosed with a fence. He is due in court again Sept. 12.

Frank E. Taylor, rear 1223 Erie St., was fined $25 and costs on another section of the ordinance regulating the storage of junk.

How Can I

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I keep a roll of friction tape in good condition? My tape always dries out in between usings.

A. One good way to preserve the tape and protect the adhesive, is to coat both the flat sides with some rubber cement. You can keep a roll of friction tape indefinitely with this treatment, because any tape you do remove will not break the seal.

Q. How can I give cut glass a high polish?

A. Wash it in hot water and then dip it in cold water in which a handful of starch has been dissolved. Let it dry partially by itself and then polish with a dry linen.

Q. How can I remove paper that has become stuck to the polished surface of a table?

A. By softening it with olive oil, and then rubbing gently with a soft cloth.

Electronic Computer Loses At Blackjack

BALTIMORE (AP) — In a University of Baltimore laboratory, a scientist taught an electronic computer the rules of blackjack, or "21," then won $14 from the machine in coded-data "money."

The statistical scientist fed the computer coded information on tape and insisted that the machine deal. It parceled out "hands" in the form of punched tapes with values for aces, kings and so on. Defeat came to the machine, the scientist reasoned, because it was willing to "hit" its hand — take an extra card — when it had a count of 17.

Plane Found With 2 Bodies

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A crashed private plane with two bodies in the wreckage was found Thursday three miles southeast of the village of Carey, near the intersection of U. S. 23 and Ohio 103.

Sheriff's deputies said they were certain the bodies were those of the pilot, Dr. G. B. Robinson, 55, and William W. Stewart, both of Mount Gilead. The two men had been missing since Tuesday afternoon when their plane left Brantford, Ont., bound for Marion, Ohio.

The crash was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frederick Jr. of Carey, who have a summer camp on leased ground where the plane fell. They had just arrived at the camp, near Tymoch Creek, when they saw the plane in a wooded area.

The aircraft appeared to have struck a 75-foot high oak tree, then plunged to the ground. Its wings were ripped off and the fuselage smashed. The two bodies were found on the ground in front of the wreckage.

Positive identification awaited arrival of Civil Air Patrol authorities.

More than a score of Civil Air Patrol planes had been searching for the single engine Cessna 180 in an area between Marion and Toledo. Dr. Robinson, former head of Hydraulic Press Mfg. Co. in Mount Gilead, and Stewart, treasurer of the company, had gone to Ontario on business. Their plane left Brantford about 4 p. m. Tuesday. Shortly before 5 p. m. the same day, the Toledo airport received a radio message from a plane asking about weather conditions in the Mansfield area. There was no word after that.

A CAP official reported that Dr. Robinson had not filed a flight plan.

Integration In Florida Is Step Closer

By The Associated Press
School integration is a step closer in Florida today, cutting to five the number of Southern states holding firm to the traditional separate schools for white and Negro pupils.

South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana are the only states in which at least token integration has not been started in elementary or high schools.

While 32 Negroes and one white pupil were registering Thursday at a previously all-white school in Miami, a federal judge in Virginia was turning down an argument for equal but separate schools for Negroes.

If white and Negro children attend classes together at the Orchard Villa Elementary School in Miami when school opens Tuesday it will mark the first desegregation of a Florida public grade school.

A Dade County (Miami) move to comply with the U.S. Supreme Court's integration ruling led to the situation at the Orchard Villa school, which is in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

At Harrisonburg, Va., lawyers for the Warren County School Board tried without success to get a federal judge to allow separate but equal schools because the county now has a high school for Negroes.

Judge John Paul refused to dissolve his order that Negroes be admitted to the all-white school at Front Royal, Va. He questioned whether the new Negro school for about 125 pupils has the same standards as the Warren County High School, at which 18 Negroes have registered for the Sept. 8 opening.

Negroes in Clarendon County, S. C., also opposed the separate but equal doctrine, which was overturned by the U. S. Supreme Court's original desegregation order.

County School Supt. L. B. McCord said he was disturbed because there were 51 requests for assignment of Negroes to white schools that opened Thursday. Police were at the schools involved, but Negroes made no attempts to enroll.

Banned Book Receives Capitol Hill Attention

WASHINGTON (AP)—A banned book is getting considerable attention on Capitol Hill. It is called "Design for Survival," and was written by Gen. Thomas S. Power, head of the Strategic Air Command.

"Contrary to reports," said Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.) today, "the book does not advocate preventive war."

Moss, as chairman of the House Government Information subcommittee, demanded an explanation from Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy of why the Pentagon prevented the book's publication.

When Betsy Ross made the first American flag, it was unfurled for the first time at the Battle of Brandywine, Pa. on Sept. 11, 1777.

More Peace Talks Set In Bliss Firm Strike

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Union and company representatives meet again today in an attempt to settle a dispute that has led to a walkout of 700 members of the United Steelworkers of America employed by the E. W. Bliss Co. here.

A controversy over seniority Thursday night was causing delay in negotiations for a contract extension. Negotiators reported "little progress" Thursday on "non-economic issues."

A spokesman for the union said, "There will be no talks about an extension of the contract until the seniority question is settled."

The workers left their jobs here at midnight Monday when their three-year contract expired.

Some 350 workers at the Bliss company's plant in Salem returned to work Wednesday after a contract extension was negotiated.

Regulus II Falls Victim To Bomarc Guided Missile

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—A supersonic Regulus II missile, simulating an enemy bomber, fell victim to a successful interception by a Bomarc guided missile.

The Bomarc made a scheduled near miss on the target over the Gulf of Mexico Thursday in the first of a series of launchings of the IM99A Bomarc against faster-than-sound simulated enemy bombers.

The interception was made at supersonic speed well above 35,000 feet.

The Regulus is capable of speeds of more than 1,500 miles per hour.

The radio-controlled Regulus was launched from the beach at Venice, on the Florida Gulf coast about 300 nautical miles from the Bomarc launching site on nearby Santa Rosa Island.

Niagara Falls Dry; In Homes, That Is

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP)—Niagara Falls went dry Thursday. Tons of water roared over the cataract but not a drop issued from taps in 12,000 Canadian homes in the area.

Car Title Case Costs $20 Fine

SALINEVILLE—A Lisbon area man who falsified a car title transfer application and a Bergholz area youth who skipped a traffic hearing four months ago were fined by Mayor Karl Lindner Thursday night.

Francis Gorby, 49, of Lisbon R. D. pleaded guilty to making a false statement on an application for the transfer, a charge filed by Howard Lisk, inspector for the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Gorby switched the registration of a 1952 auto to another car without disposing of the first car as required by law. He stated on the application, however, that it had been sold to a junk dealer.

Mayor Lindner fined him $100 and costs, but suspended $80 on condition the matter be corrected.

Glenn Riggs, 22, of Bergholz R. D. 1, cited May 10 on E. Main St. for reckless operation by Washington Township Constable Floyd Lewis, was fined $10 and costs on the traffic charge and $50 and costs for contempt of court in not appearing for a hearing May 14. The contempt fine was suspended by the mayor.

Riggs was taken into custody by Lewis last night at Bergholz on a warrant issued by the mayor in May.

Senate Group Eyes Highway Financing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee takes up the highway financing bill today. There is a sharp fight in prospect over an alternative to the gasoline tax increase in the measure passed by the House.

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), a committee member, told a reporter he would battle to put into the bill some revenue source other than the penny gas tax boost.

But Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), the committee chairman, said he believed the House bill raising the tax from 3 to 4 cents a gallon through June 30, 1961, would be reluctantly approved.

The House passed the bill 243-162 Thursday after weeks of wrangling.

Many states have been forced to curtail work on road projects because of the uncertainty over the future flow of federal aid funds.

Science Library To Be Available At Beaver High

A circulating 200-volume science library, provided by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, will supplement the Beaver Local High School science education program for the current year, Lee A. Kirkland, principal, announced today.

The outstanding, up-to-date books, valued at $1,000, will circulate to the high school from Washington, and will cover all branches of science from the junior to the advance senior level.

The experimental program, aimed at developing more student interest in science and technical careers, was launched by a federal agency grant in 1955. The library now is distributed to schools in every state in the nation.

The 200 books are circulated 50 at a time to four high schools in geographic proximity, the cases rotating every two months. The books are now on display at the school library where parents and others may examine them.

School Rolls Reach 5,416

An increase of 127 students in city public schools since Tuesday was recorded today to bring the total enrollment to 5,416.

A total of 5,289 were registered Tuesday when classes resumed for the 1959-60 term.

Supt. Ralph W. Betts said most of the gain was registered at Westgate School, which reported an increase of 99 students since the opening day.

A breakdown shows 3,108 elementary pupils enrolled, 1,330 attending two junior high schools and 978 in the senior high school, Betts said.

An additional 525 children are expected to return to classrooms when St. Aloysius Parochial School reopens Tuesday morning with full day classes from 8:45 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

The expected enrollment is an increase of 25 to 30 over 1958, primarily in the first grade, Sister Philomeen, new principal, said.

The parochial teachers are attending an institute today and Saturday in Youngstown for diocesan teachers.

Commissioners also authorized Robert Bycroft, county welfare director, to attend a Welfare Directors' Association meeting Wednesday at the Canton YMCA, and participate in an eight-week orientation course in child welfare at Warren. The weekly classes begin Tuesday.

Extra Offices Due For City's Voting Signup

Branch registration offices will be established in East End, North Side and Pleasant Heights as an extra convenience to unqualified voters in the last three days before the Sept. 23 deadline for registration for the Nov. 3 general election, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the County Election Board said today.

The branch offices will operate Sept. 21, 22 and 23 from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. and 5 to 10 p. m. in the Louis-James Clothing Store on Mulberry St., which is a regular precinct polling place; the North Side Fire Station on St. Clair Ave. and the Pleasant Heights School on Lisbon St.

Two members of the board's staff — a Republican and a Democrat — will be on duty at each branch office. O'Hanlon emphasized that voters will be able to register at the same time at the Election Board's office on W. 6th St., opposite City Hall. Registrations are handled daily. The office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and Saturdays from 9 to 12.

The board established the branch registration points as a convenience to unqualified voters in the residential areas, O'Hanlon explained. They will be able to visit an office in their own area, rather than driving downtown to enroll, he said.

A campaign to enroll voters for November already is under way, but the response has been "sporadic," O'Hanlon commented. He estimated that at least 2,000 potential voters are not qualified.

East Liverpool had 10,372 registered voters Jan. 1. The total climbed to 10,598 in the registration drive prior to the May primaries. It stands low at 10,585. The decline since the primaries has resulted from deaths and removals from the city, O'Hanlon said, citing the continual postwar migration to residential areas outside the city where registration is not required.

How Can I

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make a cleaner for painted walls and woodwork at home?

A. By mixing one cup of household ammonia, one-half cup of vinegar, one-fourth cup of baking soda, and one gallon of water. No rinsing is necessary.

Q. How can I take proper care of a garbage can during warm weather?

A. Place a few drops of strong disinfectant in the garbage pail every few days during warm weather. It will prevent disagreeable odors and will also keep a way prowling cats and dogs.

Q. How can I keep the pastry board from slipping?

A. It will not slip about on an enamel table top if a rubber jar ring is put under each corner.

The old saying, "Speak no evil, see no evil, hear no evil," comes from an ancient Japanese proverb, which has become associated with the three monkeys in the mural decorations of Nikko. There is a legend that Confucius originated both the proverb and the symbols.

Laos' Army Chief Seeks Civilians' Aid

SAM NEUA, Laos (AP)—The royal army commander today armed civilians and sent out an appeal for reinforcements to stop Communists massing for an assault on this strategic town.

Brig. Gen. Amkha Soukhavong, whose command post for northern Laos is in Sam Neua, predicted the Red assault would come within 10 days. He said the situation "is not pretty."

Submachineguns and ammunition were handed out to government workers and school teachers hastily enlisted in the defense forces. The town's 2,500 population remained calm.

The rebels were reported massing in jungle-covered mountains 27 miles north of Sam Neua but sent patrols probing forward government lines within 12 to 18 miles of the town.

One Red patrol attacked a royal paratroop unit at Muong Pane, only six miles north of Sam Neua. There were no details on the clash.

Amkha estimated the total Communist strength at 4,500. He said he had only one battalion in Sam Neua. A Laos battalion ranges from 400 to 800 men.

"We have six more battalions elsewhere in the province," he said. "But I cannot get them here. The world knows our problem. Why don't they send us helicopters and planes which would bring troops in and take out wounded?"

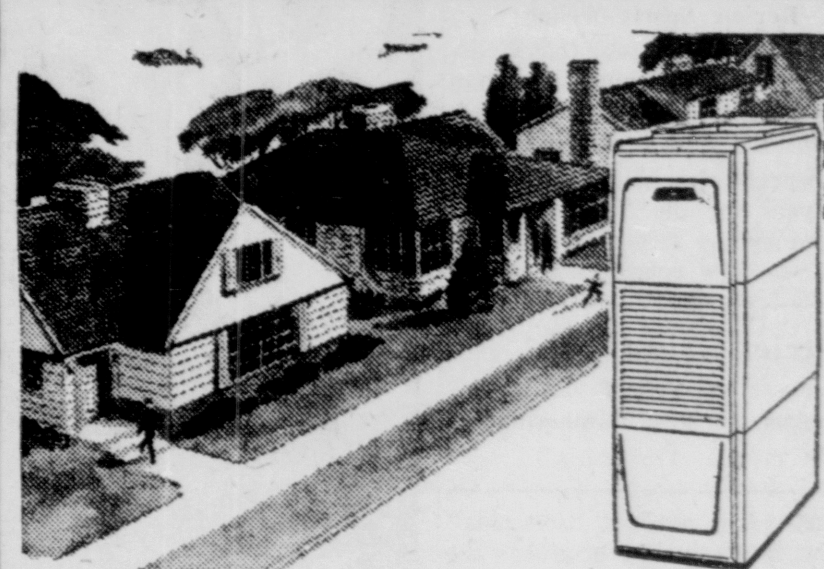

Amkha is building his main defense line 12 miles out with a handful of paratroopers manning more forward advance outposts.

Stronger Wellsville Eleven Looks For More Victories

12 Lettermen In Fold For Coach Woods

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

This could be the year that Wellsville High School whips more than three opponents in one football season for the first time since 1953. Prospects of a better than average year for the Tigers are enhanced by the return of 12 lettermen who saw considerable action in 1958. And a slight "softening" of the 1959 schedule brightens the picture a little more.

District Grid Card

TONIGHT
Chester at New Cumberland, 8 p. m.

Coach Ken Woods begins his second year at Wellsville with good hopes of fielding a strong starting team, but is worried about prospects of adequate replacements from shallow ranks.

BUT THE overall picture seems favorable. The returnees include hard-driving fullback Bob Delposen, shifty halfback Jim Stevens and end Bob Brown, a pass-catching veteran of three years.

These three alone figure to arm the Tigers with an explosive attack and Woods has uncovered a fleet freshman halfback in Leo Pearson to add punch to the backfield.

A good-sized line, well-experienced but on the slow side, may serve to pave the way for the backfield to do a little more scoring than previous Wellsville clubs of the past decade.

The Tigers had a 2-6-1 record in 1958 and scored 86 points to 252 by opponents.

Delposen, a 180-pound senior, did most of the scoring last season and is expected to have another good year. Stevens, 160, and Pat Creaturo, 130, probably will start at halfbacks for the opening game Sept. 18 at Leetonia.

AT THE quarterback post, Woods is depending on Bob Kiggins, a slender 160-pound junior, to operate his straight T formation.

Besides Brown, other line returnees include hefty Ralph (Jiggers) Wagner, 240-pound tackle, Phil Baldwin, 165-pound junior center, and Phil Vernon, 185-pound guard or tackle.

John Euill, a fast sophomore halfback, Pat Albanese, Willard Mobley, Ed Bauer and Dick Brown are leading candidates for varsity positions.

The heat wave has forced Woods to cut short practice drills at times and the weather apparently has caused the squad to dwindle in number from 30 to about 25 at times. Thus, the offensive team is not as far along in terms of fitness as normally, but "things are looking better each day," Woods commented.

The youthful mentor warned that "lettermen sometimes don't tell the full story," pointing out that most of the returnees did not play full time in 1958.

Graduation dealt a relatively soft blow to Woods, who lost only six from the 1958 club. Among them were giant tackle Len Culi, Ed Stone, a guard, Bob Walker, Dick Kuntz and Jack Jordan, all linemen, and Leonard Johnson, a halfback.

THE TIGERS figure to benefit from the absence of this year's schedule of Austintown Fitch, Bellaire St. John's and Cadiz. The Fitch team humbled Wellsville in the opener last year, 60-14. Bellaire and Cadiz also posted victories.

New opponents include Beaver Local, Leetonia and Wheeling Central. An open date still exists on Oct. 16.

Wellsville also will be battling the statistics in the Sept. 18 opener at Nicholson Stadium with Leetonia. No Wellsville team has triumphed in an opening game in five years. The last opening game victory was over Steubenville Central Catholic, 18-6, in 1953.

Woods will unveil the squad Sept. 11 in the Blue and White Nonpareil Club's football preview at Patterson Field against Columbiana at 7 p. m.

Other home games are Oct. 9 Wheeling Central, Oct. 23 Salem, Oct. 30 Jefferson Union and Nov. 13 Mingo. Away games are with Toronto Sept. 25, Beaver Local Nov. 6 and Lisbon Nov. 20.

A new assistant in the Tiger camp is Bill Bartley, a Wellsville High School and West Liberty State College graduate. Returning to aid Woods are Jack McDevitt, Carl Firm, George Lawton and Royd Hodge.

Rote Sparkles As Lions Win

By The Associated Press

Tobin Rote, the two-way quarterback in the pros' language, is up to his proven tricks while pointing the Detroit Lions toward a new—and happier, they hope—National Football League season.

Rote, a passing quarterback who also runs, stayed at the controls throughout the Lions' exhibition game with the Philadelphia Eagles at Toledo Thursday night. Coach George Wilson and the Lions—who wallowed with a 4-7-1 record last year—were rewarded with these accomplishments:

Eighteen of 25 passes completed for 272 yards and three touchdowns, eight runs for 69 yards and one touchdown—adding up to a 35-24 Detroit victory.

Rote, now 30 and beginning his 10th pro season, packed four touchdowns into a wide open second quarter after the Eagles grabbed a 14-0 first quarter lead.

Baltimore's pro champion Colts seek their fourth straight exhibition victory against Pittsburgh's Steelers at Miami tonight, touching off another heavy weekend exhibition program.

There are four more games Saturday: San Francisco vs. the Chicago Cards at Seattle, and in night games, Cleveland at Los Angeles, Washington vs. the Chicago Bears at Jacksonville, Fla., and New York against Green Bay at Bangor, Maine.

Indian Red Girl Wins Sportsman's Park Trot

CHICAGO (AP)—Indian Red Girl captured the $6,000 Success Trot Stake at Sportsman's Park Thursday night before 9,878.

The classy 4-year-old filly, owned by A. C. Laishley of Crestline, Ohio, grabbed the lead in the stretch after racing on the outside for most of the mile.

It was her 12th victory in 32 starts this year and her 23rd trip in the money. She was driven by Don Irvine and returned $5.80 as the 9-5 second choice. Hi Lo's Bomb, 6-5 favorite, finished third.

Indians Face White Sox In Do-Or-Die 3-Game Set

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland either takes two of three in that last-chance series opening at Chicago tonight against the first-place White Sox, or they're nothing but a bunch of dead Indians in the American League pennant race.

It's as simple—or as tough—as that.

A sweep would jump the White Sox 8½ games out front—enough to virtually lock up their first pennant in 40 years with 19 games to play. At the moment, their magic number is 18—any combination of Chicago victories and Cleveland losses totaling 18 gives it to the White Sox.

Neither the White Sox, who named Early Wynn (17-9) to pitch tonight, nor the Indians, who picked rookie Jim Perry (10-6), played Thursday. In the only AL games scheduled, Baltimore beat Boston 5-4 on Bob Nieman's two home runs, and the Yankees whipped Washington 9-2 behind Art Ditmar, who had a no-hitter until Roy Sievers homered with two out in the seventh. The Nats finished with four hits.

In the National League, San Francisco came behind for an 8-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The second-place Los Angeles Dodgers were knocked off by St. Louis 5-3.

Wynn, the old man with the young arm, has beaten the Indians eight times out of nine since they traded him to the White Sox two years ago.

Perry, a fast-balling right-hander, lost his only decision with Chicago in a duel won 2-0 by Dick Donovan last Saturday.

The Sox have taken 13 of the 18 games played between the two contenders this season. After the Chicago series, they'll meet for one more game—Cleveland September 22.

The men's semi-final race is 15 laps and the feature is 25 laps.

There will be no admission this Sunday, sponsors said. Upon erection of a fence, however, there will be a charge.

CHICAGO (AP)—Bill Veeck was quoted today as saying Al Lopez can virtually write his own ticket if and when he decides to sign a contract as the White Sox field manager for 1960.

Lopez could sign a two- or three-year contract and at a raise in pay, the Chicago Sun-Times quoted the Sox president as saying.

The paper said Veeck has had preliminary talks with Lopez about next year but said Lopez indicated he would prefer to delay any contract signing until after the 1959 season.

Lopez currently is working under a one-year contract which expires this year.

Would Veeck offer Lopez a one- or three-year contract?

"That's up to Al," Veeck told the paper. "All I can say is that we'd be delighted to have him back. Of course he'd get a raise. He certainly is entitled to it."

Lopez' Sox currently are 5½ games ahead of second-place Cleveland in the American League.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Pilot Zoom won the feature $3,000 pace in 2:06 1-5 at Brandywine Raceway Thursday. The four-year-old gelding is owned by Porter Martin of Circleville, Ohio. Driven by Jim Mace, the horse wound up a length winner, paying $5.10, $4.00 and $3.10 as the favorite.

Wally Butts of Georgia has seen his football team win 124 games, lose 81 and tie 9 in 20 years as a college coach.

CHICAGO (AP)—Unless a playoff is needed to select a league champion, the World Series will start Wednesday, Sept. 30, in the American League pennant winner's park.

This and other preliminary details for the 1959 world championship were worked out at a meeting Thursday of high-standing clubs in both leagues with Commissioner Ford Frick.

Because of the tight race in the National League there were a lot of "ifs" in the early stage planning. These included:

If the series involves Chicago or Cleveland, or San Francisco or Los Angeles, the first two games will be played in the Midwest, Oct. 2 would be a travel date. The next three games would be played Oct. 3, 4 and 5 in the National League park on the West Coast.

If the best-of-seven games series should have to continue, the sixth and seventh games would be in the American League city Oct. 7 and 8.

If neither San Francisco nor Los Angeles take the pennant, no traveling days would be needed. The first game in a National League park, then, would be played Oct. 2.

If there should be ties for the pennant and the end of the regular season schedule, the contenders would play a best-of-three games series to determine the league's entry in the World Series.

If such a playoff should be needed, it would start Monday, Sept. 28. The World Series would start the second day after the completion of the playoff.

The starting time for each World Series game will be 1 p. m. local time.

Giants Win, 8-5, To Push Lead To 2½ As Dodgers Bow, 5-3

Homers Wrap It Up; Cards Rip Drysdale

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

If somebody's second-guessing Don Drysdale these days, it isn't the hitters. They've nailed him, and no doubt about it.

It was Drysdale who paced Los Angeles' climb into the National League pennant fight, winning 10 of 11 over two months and pitching the Dodgers within half a game of first place when he won his seventh in a row Aug. 8.

But the big right-hander hasn't won since—and he's been tagged for nine home runs in 29 innings through that losing span. He had given up just 13 homers through his first 208 innings while breezing to a 15-6 record.

The St. Louis Cardinals, clubbing back when big guy Joe Cunningham was plunked with a pitch after hitting a homer, belted Drysdale for his fifth straight defeat, 5-3, Thursday night. The second-place Dodgers fell 2½ games behind San Francisco.

The Giants came from behind for an 8-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs on home runs by Ed Bressoud and the Willies—McCovey and Mays. It was the only other game scheduled in the NL.

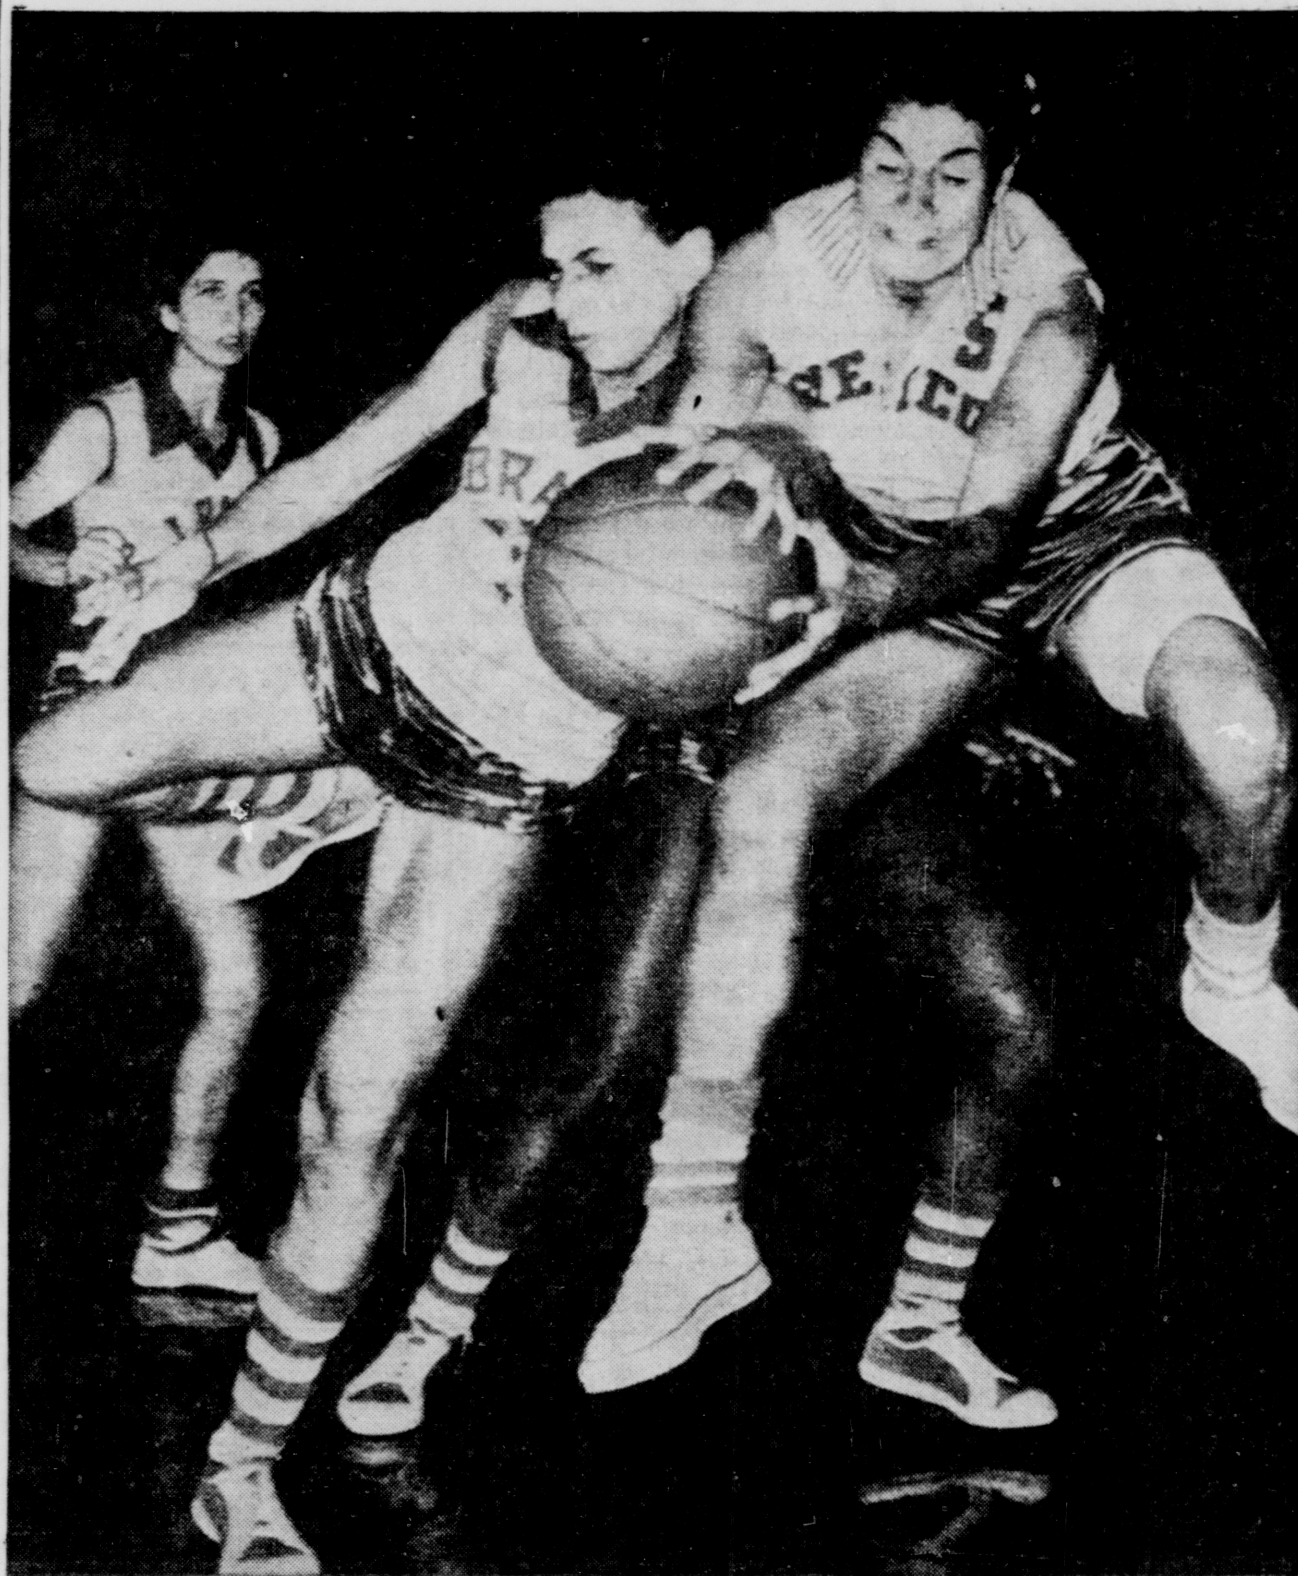

In the American League New York beat Washington 9-2 and Baltimore defeated Boston 5-4 in the only games scheduled. Drysdale, who popped off recently about second-guessers among Dodger coaches, almost touched off a brawl when he sidled Cunningham, perhaps for several days, with a badly bruised forearm. Jersey Joe, hitting .350 and challenging Milwaukee's Hank Aaron (.358) for the bat title, hit a first-inning home run off Drysdale, then took a pitch on the right arm when he came up again in the third.

Players from both benches stormed the mound as plate umpire Stan Landes advanced on Drysdale with a warning about close pitches. When things quieted down, Drysdale didn't. He walked Bill White, then was chased by Ken Boyer's three-run homer that gave the Cards a 4-2 lead.

Bob Miller (3-2), a right-handed rookie, was the winner. He gave up two runs in the first, but then blanked the Dodgers on three hits until John Roseboro homered in the ninth.

Both Bressoud and Mays drove in three runs for the Giants after the Cubs had chased 18-game winner Johnny Antonelli with three runs in the third for a 4-0 lead. Bressoud homered in a two-run third and tied it with a two-run single in the fourth. McCovey then broke it up with his 10th homer in the fifth loss losing reliever Dave Hillman (6-10). Mays added his 25th homer with a man on in the sixth.

Stu Miller (8-7) won it. Championship bowler Lee Jouillard of Detroit credits horseshoe pitching for developing his timing and coordination.

Olmedo Eyes Third Crown

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—“I want to win this one very much—I try awfully hard.”

This was Alex Olmedo's promise to a disillusioned tennis public to day as he opened his bid to add the U.S. National to his Australian and Wimbledon championships for a rare “little slam.”

The Peruvian's first opponent is Don Russell, 19, an Australian now attending Pan American College in Texas. The match is the second on the Stadium Court at the West Side Tennis Club—one of 47 men's (32) and women's (15) singles contests for opening day.

“I don't know Russell but I don't worry,” Olmedo said. “I plan to play very hard to reach the finals and then I try very hard to win.”

Since the Davis Cup Challenge Round last weekend, in which his surprise flop cost Uncle Sam the trophy, Olmedo has been working like a mule—often two hard practice sessions a day—to regain top form.

Olmedo is top-seeded. In the bottom half of the draw his toughest rivals appear to be Earl Buchholz, Rod Laver and Roy Emerson. Neale Fraser, Australia's cup star, and Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, head the upper bracket. They play Saturday.

Kansas City Open Will Start Today
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tommy Bolt, once the temperamental terror of professional golf, says he is playing a “jolly game” with poor results.

So far this year, Bolt said Thursday, he hasn't thrown a club, snarled at a tournament official or insulted a fan. And he hasn't won a tournament, either.

“I just can't get started,” Bolt told newsmen gathered to watch the pros limber up for the annual $20,000 Kansas City Open, which begins today.

Bolt, 1958 U.S. Open champion, said he wants one of the 10 places on the U.S. Ryder Cup team. He trails 10th-place Jackie Burke by 57 points and could pass him by winning here.

The greens at Hillcrest Country Club's 6,542-yard par 72 layout are rough, and most observers think it will take a superb putter to score on them.

The 72-hole tournament ends Labor Day.

Darrell Royal, head football coach at the University of Texas, was an All-America quarterback at the University of Oklahoma.

Abundant Deer Supply Awaits West Virginia's 'Robin Hoods'

CHARLESTON (AP) — The Robin Hoods of West Virginia outdoor sportsmen can expect an abundant deer supply in excellent condition, the State Conservation Department reported.

A successful bow hunters season on deer is anticipated in West Virginia, beginning Oct. 3 and lasting to Dec. 31.

Bow hunters bagged 117 deer last year. But the state agency quoted a report by Jim Chadwick, leader of deer investigations, that the 1958 number should be surpassed.

Chadwick prepared a list of favorable bow hunting areas in the state, which included the following:

Barbour-Taylor Counties — Pleasant Creek section of Tygart Reservoir.

Berkeley-Morgan-Sleepy Creek public hunting area.

Braxton-Elk River public hunting area.

Brooke, Hancock and Ohio—Ask conservation officers or local area hunters.

Grant-Stony River section. Greenbrier-Neola wildlife management area.

Hampshire-Nathaniel Mountain and Short Mountain public hunting areas.

Hardy — Wardensville wildlife management area, Trout Run, Moores Run, Sandy Ridge, State Farm and Lost River sections.

McDowell-Coalwood and Clear Fork sections.

Mason-McClintic Wildlife Station.

Monongalia-Preston — Cooper's Rock State Forest.

Pendleton — Gatewood wildlife management area, including Spruce Knob.

Pocahontas — Seneca and Cal Price state forests, Cranberry and Little River areas, and Rimel wildlife management area.

Randolph-Bluestone Reservoir public hunting area.

Tucker — Canaan wildlife management area and Fernow experimental forest near Parsons.

Chadwick noted that bow hunters may find excellent areas where crops have been damaged in Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Pendleton, Preston and Tucker counties. He said many land owners there probably will welcome archers on their farms.

West Virginia Fullback Talk Of Grid Camp

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia Coach Art Lewis must be wondering whether he has a poor varsity football team or a whale of a good frosh team.

Cause of the wonderment occurred during a scrimmage session at the WVU training camp here yesterday. The yearlings played defense while the varsity was on the offense.

At one point in the head-knocking, the eager frosh held the varsity's No. 1 team for downs. All of which caused the irate Lewis to roar:

“If you can't make a first down against the frosh, what do you expect to do against another varsity?”

Earlier, however, the varsity, using three units, managed to push across three touchdowns against the Little Mountaineers, with fullbacks accounting for all three scores.

Fullback Tom Huston sparked the No. 1 unit on a 60-yard drive, going the final seven yards himself off tackle.

Fullbacks Curt Harmon of the second unit and Mule Bennett of the third each turned in five-yard scoring plunges. Bob Benke, returning fullback veteran from last year's team, reported into camp overweight and has not seen too much scrimmage duty.

The frosh defenses were led by end Frank Schneider of Columbus, Ohio; guard Bob DeLorenzo of Fairmont West, tackle Frank Sirianni of Clarksburg Roosevelt; Wilson and quarterback Larry Tracewell of Parkersburg.

Lewis is sticking with virtually the same No. 1 varsity unit he has been using since the start of drills here. Ben McComb and Dave Hess are at the ends, Glenn Bowman and Carl Dannenberg at tackles, Bill Lopasky and Pete Tolley at guards, Charlie Lanasa at center, Danny Williams at quarterback, Dave Rider and Ray Peterson at halfbacks along with Huston at fullback.

Making determined efforts to break into the starting lineup are halfbacks Dick Herrig and John Marra. Herrig, running exceptionally well, and Marra spelled Peterson and Rider.

However, the play of Huston at fullback has been the talk of veteran camp observers. The 205-pounder has looked good in every department.

U.S. Hauls In 12 More Gold Medals In Pan-Am

By MURRAY ROSE

CHICAGO (AP) — The Yankee giant flexed his bulging muscles for another load of gold medals today in the Pan American Games.

It's almost reached the embarrassing stage for the host United States. They've invited everyone to dine but they haven't left them much to eat.

The heavily manned Yank team hauled in 12 more gold medals Thursday for a total of 58. The bag is going to be heavy again when swimming, boxing, gymnastics, yachting and other events are through for the day.

The other nations combined have won 17.

“What can we do but go out to win,” said Charlie McCaffree of Michigan State, head coach of the men's swimming team.

McCaffree voice the sentiments of almost every Yank coach here.

There are five gold medals on tap today in each of the key sports of swimming and boxing.

In the water, the United States seems a cinch to sweep all five gold medals and probably all the silver and bronze prizes too.

In Thursday night's first five championship fights, the United States won with light welterweight Vince Shomo of New York, middleweight Willie McClure of Toledo, Ohio, and light heavyweight Amos Johnson, a southpaw from Stockton, Calif.

Even the one U. S. loser, featherweight Charlie Brown, a Marine from Cincinnati, had a beef coming. He dropped a controversial, split decision to Argentina's Carlos Aro although he forced the fight and did most of the scoring.

With the 15-year-old Chris von Saltza leading the way, the United States won all four water events with 1-2-3 finishes. This made it eight-for-eight. In seven of these events, the Yanks have topped all three medals. In the other, they finished 1-2-4.

Miss von Saltza, a tall, blonde from Saratoga, Calif., who is aiming for an unprecedented five Pan American gold medals, got her first one in the 200-meter freestyle. She won in 2:18.3, busting her own mark made in the trials.

The same held true for Olympian George Breen, Indianapolis, in his winning time of 4:31.4 for the 400-meter freestyle. Olympian Frank McKinney, Indianapolis, retained his 100-meter backstroke crown with a fast clocking of 1:03.6.

Paula Myers Pope, Los Angeles, took the 3-meter springboard dive with 139.1 points.

Grace UP Defeats St. John's, 12-3, For Playoff Title

Grace United Presbyterian climaxed a successful season in the YMCA Church softball league by sweeping the Shaughnessy playoffs with a 12-3 victory over St. John's Lutheran Thursday night at Dople Field.

Talbot was the hero of Grace UP's victory by relieving starting pitcher Jerry Severs and fanning six batters in the last three innings while allowing only one hit.

Severs was chased in the fourth when St. John's plated three runs.

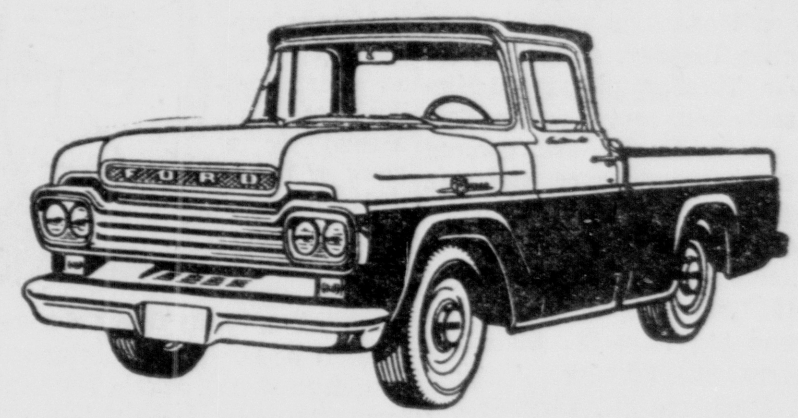

A. Dawson and Johnson sparked the victors in batting with each banging three hits. Dawson smashed a single, double and a triple. Tice chipped in with two doubles and Anderson two singles.

Cunningham led the runners-up with a single and a double.

Hopes To Match 1958 Attendance

Ohio State Fair Winds Up Tonight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 1959 Ohio State Fair draws to a close tonight with officials hoping to at least match the 1958 attendance figure of 261,043, a four-year low.

Agriculture Director Robert Terhune predicted Thursday that the fair would break even financially this year despite the fact it began $47,500 in the red.

He slated a session for October in which ideas will be discussed concerning future State Fairs. Board of Agriculture members, press, radio and TV representatives and other interested persons will attend the meeting, he said.

Terhune predicted more industry exhibits at the fair next year, suggesting that industry might well be represented on the fair management board.

The director also suggested the carnival aspect of the fair be moved away from the center of things.

He added he is studying the history of earlier efforts to get pari-mutuel betting at the harness races. Betting might improve attendance, Terhune said. Purses this year totaled more than $114,000.

Also mentioned was the possibility of splitting the junior and senior livestock shows. This would avoid construction of additional building, space, Terhune said, since the groups would be in at different times.

A six-year improvement program including a new youth exhibits building and administration building are planned, he noted.

Slated for next year is a re-vamping of the electrical system, at a cost of about $185,000. The Coliseum is to get a new roof and cement floor this fall, the director added.

Terhune said of the 1959 show: "It was a good fair, considering the rainy weather. Fair manager Rowland Bishop did a very good job, I think."

Livestock judging closed Thursday night with Ronnie Musser, 20, an FFA member from Huntsville, sweeping the Ayrshire show by winning all the blue ribbons.

Shanghai Exec Supreme Dona, a cow owned by Charles H. Lewis Son of Hamilton, won the three-year-old Holstein cow futurity to take the top $400 of the $2,000 prize money.

In the harness races, Leading Song won the $21,175 Governor's Cup Trot, taking the mile in 2:06.25. The three-year-old, driven by Virgil Butt, is owned by C. M. Saunders of Perrysburg.

Fair officials were disappointed as Gov. Michael V. DiSalle passed up the fair in favor of a speaking engagement at Cleveland. Thursday was Governor's day at the fair.

Here's a rundown of top winners in Thursday's events: Jerald Miller, 19, of Luckey, sold his 1,000-pound grand champion Angus steer at a gourmet's price—$1.81 a pound, 61 cents a pound more than the top-priced animal brought last year.

The champion Hereford, owned by Donna Craig of Washington Court House, and the champion shorthorn owned by Bob Lenhart of Galloway were both purchased for 45 cents a pound.

Top junior division FFA winners: Tom Brooks, Delaware, Holstein champion.

Virgil Studebaker, New Carlisle, Holstein reserve champion.

Gene Hitchcock, Milford Center, champion female Hereford. Bill Grossman, Lockbourne, reserve champion female Hereford. Glen Hoffis, Bucyrus, champion FFA and Junior Fair champion market lamb.

Gene Lovett, West Liberty, champion pen of lambs. He also shared honors with Judy Jacobs of West Liberty as winner of the ribbon for champion and reserve champion 4-H and FFA singles and pens of market lambs. James Mosher, Fredericktown, 4-H reserve champion in pen market lambs.

Winners in the latest events in the senior division:

Double E Ranch, Senatobia, Miss., grand champion bull, polled Hereford.

Penn State University, reserve grand champion bull, polled Hereford.

Chester Folck & Sons, Springfield, grand and senior champion jersey.

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa. (AP) — Sale of a major part of the Townsend Co. plant here to the Marcus-Paulson Co. of Fallston was disclosed today.

The joint announcement came from Marcus - Paulson and F. R. Dickenson, president of Townsend Co.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY MEYERS

Make Child Start School Year Right

When your child starts school this fall do the best you can to cause him to go to it seriously at once. At the junior or senior high level, see that he buys the necessary supplies or books at once, does not fool around for a week or two and gets going on his homework with a regular program. A n y By Garry Meyers other child having homework should go to it promptly and regularly right away. See also that your school child forms the habit of coming directly home from school, without loitering.

Expect the school child to be home on nights before school. If he says he has no homework assignments, see that he does some reading each evening.

Before the first school week has ended, he should have established patterns of good homework for the school year. The purpose is for him to establish early the habit of doing serious mental work at home.

AT ALL GRADE levels, prove to your child you are eager to hear of his school experiences and that you enjoy hearing of what he learned in any subject of the day. If the dinner hour is one of leisure and companionship, it's a good time to be enthusiastic listeners in regard to this child's day at school.

Mitchell Says Next Few Days Holds Strike Key

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I think the next few days will determine whether we will get a reasonable settlement or whether the (steel) strike will be further drawn out."

That estimate was given by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, here to address the convention of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers today.

The labor secretary said he thought negotiations in New York this week "will produce some movement or forward progress toward a settlement."

"If the progress is not evident, then I look for a longer strike," Mitchell said in a press interview on arrival Thursday.

He said his hopes for a break in the strike were merely his own guess.

The labor secretary noted that "before the steel negotiators called a five-day recess, they spent three days going over all the clauses of their old contracts. During the recess they reassessed their positions. They then resumed their talks Wednesday."

He took both sides to task, declaring they "could have applied themselves more diligently than they have thus far in search of an area of just settlement."

Heart Ailment Fatal

PANAMA (AP) — John Rufus Hardy, 56, press chief for the Panama Canal Co., died Wednesday of a heart ailment. Hardy was born in Sycamore, Ga.

Among the things he may talk about, in case he knows you are interested, are the new friends he has made, or the difficulties he has met with other children at school or on the way to or from school.

Children in the primary grades, especially those beginning school this year or entering a school new to them, may have many such problems.

When you have a fine relationship with your school child, there may be times when you can win him to consider some good suggestions from you, such as the importance of his ascertaining what the teacher expects; of his keeping himself alert in class so as to learn as much as he can there and not have to learn it later or more of it in his homework; and of his being careful to find out just what his assignments are in each subject.

BUT YOU may be tempted to exhort him and to give him a lot of advice he is not emotionally prepared to listen to or accept. Perhaps your biggest problem is to create the kind of atmosphere and feelings in him toward you in which he will welcome your suggestions and advice. Here's where you can prove your genius as a good parent.

My bulletins "Parents Can Help Child Succeed at School" and "Parents and the Child's Homework" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Key Club Given Merit Citation For Third Time

The East Liverpool High School Key Club has received its third citation of merit from national headquarters at Chicago and the certificate signed by the top officers was displayed at the youths' meeting today at the school.

The citation, for outstanding work in 1958-59, was in recognition of the group's many activities and for comprehensive monthly reports.

It was signed by C. David Saddle, president, and William Henderson, chairman of the Kiwanis International's Key Clubs committee.

The group is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. The club has a membership of about 20 with more to be enrolled soon. Craig Burbeck is president.

Three Are Arrested On Moonshine Charges

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Treasury agents have arrested three men on charges of making moonshine for sale in the Cleveland area.

The trio was arrested Thursday in a raid at a farm house near here. They are Roscoe L. Morrison, 38, of Cleveland; Larry L. Z. Isom, 38, also of Cleveland; and Alex Dorsey, 62, of Adah, a nearby mining town.

The agents said they found and destroyed three 50-gallon stills and 35 barrels containing 1,800 gallons of mash.

The men apparently would go to the unoccupied house in German Twp. occasionally, make a batch of whisky and take it to Cleveland for sale, the agents said.

Officers said the men would be arraigned before a U. S. Commissioner in Pittsburgh.

For Western Europe Tour

'Mission Accomplished' Tag Well Deserved By Ike

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH
PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower appears well entitled to put a "mission accomplished" tag on his tour through Western Europe to shore up a vital alliance against communism.

The climax and end of the mission came Thursday night with a joint statement by Eisenhower and French President Charles de Gaulle, dealing in general terms with their two days of talks.

They reported complete agreement on the handling of the West Berlin problem and said that a summit conference of Western leaders with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "should take place only when there is some possibility of definite accomplishment."

Perhaps the most significant development was the announcement that De Gaulle plans to make a public statement soon on the thorny Algerian problem which the two presidents discussed at length. Solving this problem of the nearly five-year-old rebellion in North Africa would improve France's relations with her allies.

The implication of Thursday night's announcement was that De Gaulle and Eisenhower may have neared a meeting of minds on any United States role in the Algerian situation.

Just before he left Washington Aug. 26, Eisenhower set forth as a general goal the strengthening and welding of the Western position on such issues as a summit conference, disarmament, the Berlin situation and German reunification and the bolstering of NATO.

There is no question that differences remain. But Eisenhower's camp as well as British, French and West German leaders all seem to feel that the President's visit created a new spirit of hopefulness and cooperation in Western Europe.

Eisenhower's tour began in Bonn, where he apparently convinced West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that the President's forthcoming talks with Khrushchev may help solve the Berlin problem and lead to a general easing of world tensions.

Since the Bonn meeting, Adenauer has shown signs of being willing to follow a more flexible policy in dealing with the Soviets. In Britain, Eisenhower had no task of resolving any serious Anglo-American differences. There weren't any.

One of the President's chief goals in London was to bring British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan around to deferring a summit meeting with Khrushchev until after Eisenhower's conference with the Soviet Premier. The President continued to insist that the Soviet Union must display signs of good faith in her dealings with the West before he would agree to a summit conference.

The President's point of view prevailed. From the standpoint of personal popularity, Eisenhower's sojourn was a tremendous success. Everywhere—in West Germany, Britain and France—he was wildly cheered by huge crowds.

Senate Ready To Cast Aside Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders were reported today to have decided to shunt aside a showdown fight over civil rights legislation until the next session of Congress.

Plans, however, call for tying on to the foreign aid appropriations bill a provision to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission, which is due to expire in two months.

This strategy, designed to avoid a battle that could delay the adjournment of Congress indefinitely, was outlined by a senator unwilling to be quoted by name.

Southern senators opposed to any civil rights legislation are expected to fight against extension of the commission's life but not to wage an all-out filibuster against it.

The foreign aid money bill already has been passed by the House. The Senate Appropriations Committee has not yet acted on it but plans to add a separate section providing unrelated last-minute fund requests of the administration.

About 70 attended the "get-acquainted" session at which teachers were presented corsages of lily carnations by Mrs. Vera Leek and label identity names were distributed by Mrs. Sara Smith.

Mrs. Betty Whelan, program chairman, presented a movie on PTA, and Dave Gearin and Larry Feth, high school students, reported on Boys State which they attended.

Mrs. Joyce Lewis, health chairman, said a county health clinic will be held Tuesday at the high school by Dr. C. S. Palmer, health commissioner. A dental clinic will be held Thursday by Dr. William Sulkes.

Mrs. Ida Holmes and Mrs. Mary Lou Scarry collected membership dues, and Mrs. Alma Feth, president, was in charge. The attendance banner was won by the fourth grade, taught by Mrs. Esther Yohst.
